LEBRUN NEW PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

OPINION HANDED DOWN IN STATE TON-MILE CASE

Court Disagrees With Public Service Commission on Only One Point

N O T DISCRIMINATORY
Finds Tax for Use of Public Highways and Their Maintenance

Madison—(AP)—In upholding the constitutionality of the ton-mile tax law, the state supreme court sustained virtually all the contentions made by the Public Service commission.

The court held the law constitutional recently but handed down a written opinion today. In making the ruling the court denied the request of the Wisconsin Allied Truck Owners association for an injunction to restrain enforcement of the law.

"We find ourselves in disagreement with the Public Service commission on only one point, and that is that the exemption applies to the net rather than the gross weight of the trucks," the decision written by Justice Walter Owen said.

The court held that there is no doubt that the tax is for the use of public highways and their maintenance and repair. The fact that the tax is a ton-mile tax "is the most indubitable evidence that the tax imposed is for the legitimate purpose of compensating the state for the use of its highways," the decision said.

The court also refused to sustain the contention that the law imposes an unjust burden and discriminates against interstate commerce. The law, the court said, "imposes upon the operators of motor vehicle hauling companies a ton mile tax based upon the Wisconsin mileage, no matter whether the mileage is made on an interstate or intrastate haul. There is no attempt to impose a burden upon those engaged in interstate commerce that is not imposed upon those engaged exclusively in intrastate commerce."

Right To Exempt
It is well established, the decision said further, that the legislature has the power to exempt an entire class of property from taxation. This answered the contention of the association that the exemption of vehicles of less than three tons in weight was unconstitutional. The challenge of the exemption of vehicles and trailers used exclusively in transporting dairy or farm products to the primary market was also rejected.

"This is obviously an exemption prompted by the state's consideration of one of its most basic industries and one upon which the prosperity of the state greatly depends," the decision said. "Not only this state but the nation as well, has become solicitous concerning the stern realities facing the agricultural and agrarian population of the country."

The court also sustained the Public Service commission when it held that the law applied to trucks which were running empty as well as when they were carrying freight. The supreme court held that the petition was not sufficient in that it fails in the guarantee of a warrantable attendance. It also said that it is the board which is first to determine whether or not there will be a kindergarten. The statute, it said, contemplates the reasonableness of provision for a kindergarten population.

REVEALS CONFESSION OF ATTEMPT TO POISON

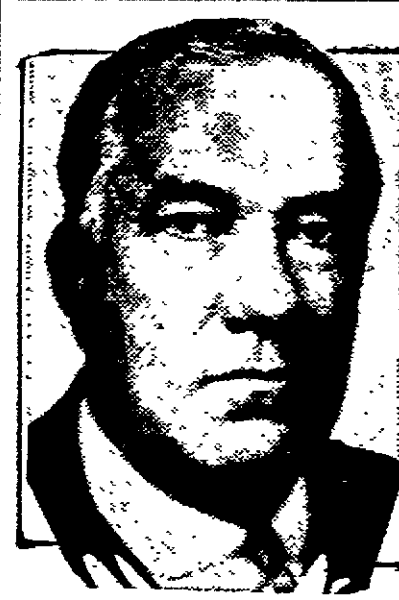

Racine—(AP)—A confession from George Fuller, of alias, Anthony Foster, an ex-convict, that he was implicated last February in an attempt to poison Charles Klein of Oconomowoc, Wis., was revealed here today by Paul Jorgensen, assistant district attorney.

Fuller was arrested yesterday upon his return from a trip through the southwest. He was placed in custody of Waukesha-co authorities who presented a warrant charging him with assault with intent to kill. The confession, Jorgensen said, related that Fuller agreed to poison Klein at the request of Klein's son-in-law, Roy Blögel, listed as a fugitive from justice on an assault charge. Fuller told the assistant prosecutor he was to receive $200 and a new automobile for killing Klein.

AGAINST PERSONNEL CUT
Washington—(AP)—Enthusiastically opposing any reduction in army personnel, Secretary Hurley today told the house military committee the war department is willing to accept a $9,400,000 slash behind the budget estimates.

Means Indicted On Embezzlement Charge

Must Pay Fine

JOSEPH D. BECK

$250 BECK FINE IS SUSTAINED

Market Commissioner Must Pay for Violating Oleo
Writ, Court Rules

Madison—(AP)—Joseph D. Beck, commissioner of the department of agriculture and markets, and a former congressman, must pay the penalty for violating a court injunction, the supreme court ruled today.

Mr. Beck was fined $250 and costs, or given an alternative of 30 days in jail, when he violated an injunction issued by Circuit Judge A. G. Zimmerman. The court order restrained Beck from circulating lists of oleomargarine dealers and was involved in the litigation over the constitutionality of the oleomargarine tax law.

The commissioner had no right to decide whether the circuit court was abridging his right of free speech, the supreme court held in sustaining the judgment against Beck. In the opinion on the case, written by Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry, the court ruled that Beck should have appealed from the injunction rather than violate it.

"The same constitution which guarantees to him the right of free speech confers on the court before whom he was brought the power to determine the dispute," the opinion said. "Had the defendant wished a

ASKED TO GIVE VIEWS ON COAL MINE INQUIRY

Washington—(AP)—Four New York clergymen who looked into conditions in the Kentucky coal mine areas today were invited by a senate subcommittee to give their views on a pending resolution for a congressional investigation.

The committee, headed by Senator Cutting (R. N. Y.) will take up tomorrow the Cutting-Costigan resolution proposing that a group of senators go into Harlan and Bell-co where charges of terrorism have been raised by several eastern groups escorted from the area.

CANCELS RENT DEBTS DUE HIM UP TO MAY 1

Superior—(AP)—George E. Dietrich, the silver-haired mayor of Superior, owns several buildings and today he was troubled with the complaints of tenants who could not pay their rent.

But the mayor was smiling today. He cleared up all the accounts by canceling every rent debt owed him up to May 1. He was busy and happy, writing out receipts for money he didn't get.

ALSO ACCUSED OF LARCENY IN M'LEAN AFFAIR

Grand Jury Charges He Diverted $100,000 "Ransom," $4,000 "Expenses"

BULLETIN
Washington—(AP)—The amount of bond for Gaston B. Means, who is under indictment of embezzlement of $104,000 intended to ransom the Lindbergh baby, was taken under advisement today by the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Washington—(AP)—Gaston B. Means, self-styled intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnaping, was indicted today for larceny and embezzlement of $104,000 from Mrs. Edward B. McLean, estranged wife of the Washington Post publisher. The district of Columbia grand jury returned two indictments charging the spectacular ex-convict and former government detective with having fraudulently diverted and secreted a $100,000 "ransom fund" and $4,000 for "expenses of the kidnapers."

Means had been employed by Mrs. McLean to effect return of the kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. He has admitted receiving the $100,000, but maintains that after Mrs. McLean's death he gave it to a mysterious stranger who he believed was an authorized representative of Mrs. McLean.

The indictments were read before Justice James M. Proctor in the District of Columbia Supreme court. Prosecutors are ready for trial, but some delay is expected to be sought by the defense. Means was jailed last week after a secret investigation by the justice department following complaint by Mrs. McLean. Means' alleged misappropriation of the $100,000, the indictments charged, took place on March 7, a week after Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnaped.

No Money Found
Government investigators are still without a substantial clue to what actually happened to the money. They have been unable thus far to find any one associated with "negotiations" for which Mrs. McLean says he led her on wild-goose chases to South Carolina and the Mexican border. He says the man to whom he gave the money identified himself by whispering "eleven," the number by which Mrs. McLean was called throughout the affair.

Each indictment was in two counts, covering the ransom and expense money separately. The first count of the larceny after trust indictment charged that on last March 7 Means "did have in his possession $100,000 in lawful money," which Mrs. McLean had "delivered and entrusted to him" for her use, and that Means "did then and there feloniously, unlawfully and fraudulently convert the same to his own use."

The second count of this indictment charged Means had $4,000 delivered to him by Mrs. McLean on March 18, and that he converted this sum also to his own use. The embezzlement indictment recited that Means was employed on March 7 "to be the attorney, agent, clerk and servant" of Mrs. McLean, that as such he was entrusted with $100,000, which he "feloniously and fraudulently did take, make away with and secrete the same, with intent to convert the same to his own use, and thereby then and there did embezzle same."

PRESIDENT CHEERED BY TAX BILL ACTION

Hears Reports of Returning
Courage in Many Sections of Country

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover as a result of conferences with senate leaders since last Saturday was greatly encouraged today over hopes of speedy action in the senate on the revenue bill.

Reports of a returning courage in many parts of the country have come to the president as a result of senate progress on the revenue and economy programs, coupled with the action of the house ways and means committee in killing the bonus. The president feels that the house committee's action approximates a definite death and burial for the bonus, strongly opposed by him, to print expenditures of new money to redeem the bonus certificates. The chief executive was particularly heartened today, also, by the progress in the senate toward creation of a special economy committee, which would act as a subcommittee of the appropriations committee. This action, he feels, will allow the government to set its sails against a reduction of $700,000,000 in federal expenditures, including the amount loaned from appropriation measures before they were submitted to congress.

TWO "ORPHANS" TOLD THEY WILL SHARE IN ESTATE OF $300,000

Wausau—(AP)—A week ago Ruth Rogers, 16, and her brother, William, 15, regarded themselves as orphans who would be obliged to face the world pretty much alone when they finish their studies in the Mosinee high school.

Today they know they have a mother, and they have been told that they will share in a $300,000 estate. Since infancy the principals in this story lived on the farm of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rogers, near Mosinee. Their father, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, died when Ruth was four months old. The Rogers never knew their daughter-in-law intimately, but they offered to shelter the infants and for twelve years they did not hear of their mother. They assumed she had died. But the twelve years of silence was broken last week when the mother communicated with the children. Married again, she is Mrs. Ruth Murphy of Trenton, Mich. She wrote that an estate in her family is about to be divided. Through the years the children on the Wisconsin farm were not forgotten, and they have been named beneficiaries, she wrote.

2 Guilty of Weight Plot In Chicago

Serritella and Hochstein
Convicted of Defrauding
Housewives

Chicago—(AP)—State Senator Daniel A. Serritella was convicted today of conspiracy while city seal of Chicago permitting the defrauding of Chicago housewives out of millions of dollars by short weighing. Harry Hochstein, chief deputy under Serritella, was also convicted.

The jury, which had been out since 9:25 last night, chose a form of verdict in which it made no recommendation for punishment. Judge James J. Kelly set May 20 as the date for hearing a motion for a new trial and for sentencing the pair if the motion is denied. Serritella, for many years an associate of "Scarface Al" Capone, was city sealer under a former city administration. The state charged that he and his deputy, Hochstein, permitted unscrupulous store keepers to cheat their customers, disregarding complaints if the store keepers donated liberally to "Christmas funds," political campaigns and other causes.

Both defendants testified yesterday, admitting they received food from merchants to be used in Christmas baskets for the poor, but they denied granting favors in return. Many women testified to making scores of purchases from merchants who short weighed them consistently. The state estimated Chicago housewives lost $54,000,000 during Serritella's tenure of office. Serritella snorted "see my lawyer" when asked for a statement after the verdict was read.

COL. ANDERSON URGES CHANGE IN DRY LAW

New York—(AP)—Col. Henry Anderson, who was a member of the Vickersham commission on law observance and enforcement, believes prohibition in its present form "must prove ineffective." He told the Ohio society last night he is ready to lend his support to any sound plan to bring an end to "this vexing problem."

One reason for the "failure of prohibition," he said, was the refusal of several states "containing more than one-fourth of the total population," to cooperate the enforcement.

Conspiracy Suit Started In "Kidnaping" Of Flecker

Racine—(AP)—Attorneys for Reinhold Flecker, 31, of Burlington, Wis., who was spirited from Circuit Judge E. B. Belden's courtroom here April 29 and rushed across the state border into Illinois to face charges of robbing a bank at Flossmoor, Ill., today filed suit in circuit court for $5,000 damages, alleging conspiracy, fraud and other offenses. The suit, filed by and for his deputies, Erwin Collins, Arthur Rohan, Niels Petersen and Frank Lenzke, together with three Illinois officers, Albert Hammer, George Williams and Louis Caprelli, are named defendants in the suit. Attorneys Wilbershire and Baumblatt, who defended Flecker at his recent trial here on charge of conspiracy in the robbery a year ago of the Meinhardt State bank of Burlington, charged in the complaint that their client was put to considerable expense as a result of his removal into Illinois. Flecker was convicted by a jury of the conspiracy charge in the Meinhardt bank robbery but the verdict was set aside by Judge Belden on grounds of insufficient evidence. Meanwhile, Flecker at the outset of his trial had been placed under $25,000 bond in connection with the Flossmoor bank robbery charge. While attorneys were arguing in Judge Belden's chambers a writ of error obtained from the clerk of the state supreme court and a question of admitting Flecker to bail pending further hearing, the Illinois officers, took him out of the courtroom and drove to Chicago where he was lodged in jail.

4 Pct. Beer Bill Offered By Bingham

Would Substitute Proposal for "Nuisance" Taxes in Revenue Program

Washington—(AP)—The 4 per cent beer bill was offered in the senate today by Senator Bingham, (R. Conn.) as an amendment to the revenue measure, assuring a roll call on this issue.

Bingham proposed legalization of 4 per cent beer as a substitute for numerous "nuisance" levies in the tax bill, estimating the revenue from the alcoholic beverage would net the government $375,000 annually. He would substitute the beer tax for the admissions, communications and radio and phonograph levies, saying the beer provisions also would make unnecessary the increase in postal rates, and in automobiles and in income taxes beyond the rates fixed by the house.

The Connecticut senator explained that a tax of 5 per cent on beer already is on the statute books. Therefore, his amendment simply provided that the Volstead act be amended by striking out the words "one half of 1 per centum" and inserting "4 per centum."

In an accompanying statement, Bingham said: "By eliminating increased postage rates, increased taxes on admissions, new taxes on telephones and telegrams, new taxes on radios and phonographs, reducing increases in normal income tax rates, reducing the tax on automobiles and on lubricating oil and substituting therefore the legalizing of the manufacture of good, wholesome beer, it is conservatively estimated to raise $375,000,000, or $2,000,000 more than the estimates for all the eliminated items."

"This not only eliminates the worst of the nuisance taxes, but will immediately restore work to hundreds of thousands of unemployed, and provide a new market for grain, coal, transportation and numerous other articles for which there is now no demand."

The Bingham beer bill was favorably reported by a subcommittee of the senate manufacturers' committee but the whole committee gave it an adverse report.

DELAY PROPOSAL ON RUBBER IMPORT TAX

Washington—(AP)—The senate finance committee agreed today with representatives of the rubber industry to wait until tomorrow to hear a counter proposal to the 5 cents a pound import tax on rubber provided in the revenue bill.

A. Viles, general manager of the Rubber Manufacturers' association, brought a protest to the committee against the rubber duty and was informed the tax was necessary to make the new tax bill raise sufficient funds. He asked until tomorrow to consult with members of the association.

A general sales tax was one of the alternatives to the import duty suggested by Viles but he withheld a definite counter offer pending further conferences.

SILVER RESOLUTION STUDIED BY HOOVER

Washington—(AP)—After a call at the White House, Senator Hayden (D. Ariz.) said today President Hoover had agreed to submit to various government departments for study the silver resolution to accept foreign debt payments in silver.

The president expressed willingness to determine the effect upon this country of taking foreign debt payments in silver. The Hayden resolution, now before the senate banking committee, would authorize the government for the next four years to accept silver at the rate of $6.55 an ounce. The price of silver in this country at present is about $4.39 an ounce.

INTEREST FOR EVERY WOMAN IN COOKING CLASS

Musical Program Will Entertain Guests Before
Lecture Starts

Appleton Post-Crescent Cooking school which opens for a four day session at Lawrence chapel next Monday afternoon, promises not only to be attractive because it brings Fannie Hamilton, young and famous homemaking authority as its director but also because it features an exceptional music program every afternoon. Francis Proctor, who received his bachelor of music and bachelor of arts degree at Lawrence Conservatory of Music and who studied organ and piano music last summer in Mondsee, Austria, will present an organ concert daily before the 2 o'clock lectures open under Miss Hamilton's direction.

Teaches Variety
Miss Hamilton, a college graduate in home economics, is also an authority on dietetics, and she will tell her audience how to combine foods for their specific health values as well as prepare them in various ways. For the most part, she will work with foods that most women know and use every day, stressing the fact that an ingenious housewife will discover many ways to prepare the same vegetable or meat in order to bring variety into her meals without increasing the cost.

An attractive model kitchen, to be set up on the chapel stage, with sink, range, tables and cooking utensils, complete in atmosphere even to the little row of familiar kitchen windows at the back.

Miss Hamilton will solve many household problems. She will spend part of her lecture time discussing and demonstrating the proper way to set the table for different meals, she will present ways in which to shorten a long day in the kitchen, give many valuable suggestions on household aids and "tricks" that help take the drudgery from house-keeping.

Appeals To All
From the standpoint of her menus alone, Miss Hamilton will appeal to all women, whether they are experienced in cooking or just beginning housekeeping. Her recipes, based on economy and a well balanced meal program, will fill the slim recipe books of young brides and add to the already crowded notes of matrons who have been collecting food hints for years. Each and every one will have a definite part in the week's program, which takes up the study of small family problems and large family problems alike.

Each afternoon lecture will open at 2 o'clock promptly, with the president from four leading women's organizations in the city, introducing the young director. These are Mrs. E. W. Cooney, Appleton Woman's club; Mrs. H. W. Miller, American Legion auxiliary; Miss Esther Miller, Appleton Business and Professional Woman's club; Miss Florence Durr, Appleton branch of American Association of University Women.

HITLER FOLLOWER OUTLINES JOB PLAN

Reichstag Session Interrupted by Fight Over Ban on Storm Troops

Berlin—(AP)—Gergor Strasser, a National Socialist member, outlined in the Reichstag today the details of Adolf Hitler's unemployment program. It was a friendly speech and he looked as though at last the Nazis had decided to temper their opposition to the government.

Then, toward the end of its second peaceful day, the session blew up in a fight. Wilhelm Greener, the minister of defense, made a vigorous speech to justify his order dissolving the Nazi storm troops.

If it hadn't been for the "storm troops," he shouted, "we would have had peace long ago."

Whereupon Strasser leaped to his feet and demanded that the Reichstag be suspended long enough for the cabinet to determine "whether such a man as that is fit to head the defense ministry."

The chairman ordered him out of the hall. Strasser refused to go. Hitler's unemployment relief plan was outlined by Strasser as follows: "Our plans include creation of farm settlements, damming the tide of migration to the cities, raising the value of domestic products, assuring food for everybody, organizing national work, introducing compulsory labor on the basis that every German must give his power to produce essential goods."

"There are only two eternal values—the treasures of the soil and the power of labor,"

French Chief

Albert Francois Lebrun was elected today by the national assembly as fourteenth president of France. He succeeds Paul Doumer, who was assassinated last Friday.

AKRON FIGHTS WAY IN STORM

Encounters Fog and Rough
Weather While Flying
Over Mountain Country

Dallas, Texas—(AP)—The giant navy dirigible Akron battled fog and stormy weather over the treacherous mountain country of southwest Texas today after riding out a night of rain and electrical disturbances that retarded her flight to the Pacific coast.

Low hanging clouds and fog covered the wild, sparsely settled region studded with desert and mountain peaks, as the world's largest airship fought her way westward, dodging thunderstorms.

Officials of the American Airways, which furnished the Akron with weather reports, expressed doubt whether the craft would be able to push over the "bad lands" to El Paso today.

Thunderstorms were forecast for most of the day and a dangerously low ceiling was reported eastward from El Paso.

Transmission of weather reports to the dirigible were hindered by static.

In sending a weather report at 9:30 a. m. (C. S. T.) American Airways operators said it was necessary to repeat several times and then resort to radio telephone to clarify the message.

The Akron's operator asked for another weather report at 10:30 by radio telephone. He seemed anxious to obtain every bit of data available.

The ship's operator ignored queries as to the Akron's location, coming back with a request for more information concerning the weather.

At 5:29 a. m. (C. S. T.) the Akron passed north of Sanderson, Texas. Last night 1,000 residents of San Angelo, Texas, were hastily assembled as an emergency ground crew and airmen awaited the ship's return.

Commander C. E. Rosendahl, heading the Akron's crew of 50, declined offers of landing facilities from ground stations, however, and the ship weathered the storm.

MILK PRICE ISSUE TAKEN TO GOVERNOR BY 1,200 FARMERS

Milwaukee—(AP)—More than 1,200 farmers of the region known as the "Milwaukee milk shed" aroused by the slipping prices of fluid milk, last night decided to carry their woes to Gov. Philip F. LaFollette.

The farmers attended a mass meeting in Nightingale hall, near Grantville in Waukesha-co. They condemned what was termed "the indifference of the department of agriculture and markets" to the disorderly fluid milk market in the Milwaukee area, and in a petition asked the governor to intervene.

The price of fluid milk for May delivery was cut recently to $1.70 a hundredweight. The price last winter was $2.10. Even at $2.10 milk was being produced at a loss which was gradually sapping the financial security of the farmers, but at a price of $1.70 the situation becomes so serious as to menace the general welfare of all citizens of the state, it was said in the petition.

FISHERMEN FINED

Oshkosh—(AP)—Convicted of illegally using set lines to take fish from Lake Winnebago, George Kurth of Milwaukee, and Edwin Techman, West Bend, were fined $50 each yesterday.

TAKES OFFICE AT ONCE AFTER HIS ELECTION

Doumer's Successor Polls
633 Votes Out of Total of 767 Cast

CHEERED BY SOLONS
Tardieu to Submit Cabinet's
Resignation to New President

Versailles—(AP)—Albert Francois Lebrun, the favorite son of the Department of Meurthe and Moselle, the Ohio of France—was elected fourteenth president of France today by an overwhelming majority to succeed the assassinated Paul Doumer.

Mr. Lebrun received 633 votes out of a total of 767 cast. Paul Faure, prominent Socialist leader, got 114 votes; 12 ballots were cast for former Premier Paul Painleve and 5 went to Marcel Cachin, socialist. Fifty-nine of the legislators who attended the joint senate and chamber session at which the president was elected expressed no choice.

Great applause greeted the announcement of the result. Deputy Doriot, a Communist, added to the uproar by shouting "Down with War."

All the members of the cabinet went immediately to one of the great halls in this historic palace of Louis XIV, where they awaited the new president.

There Premier Andre Tardieu congratulated him and turned over the executive powers which he had been discharging as head of the ministry since the assassination of M. Doumer.

After that ceremony was over M. Tardieu said he would resign the press this evening—apparently for the purpose of announcing that he had presented his government's resignation to the new president.

After the brief ceremony of investiture, M. Lebrun's first act was to start for Elisee palace to pay his respects at the bier of his slain predecessor.

Receives Diplomats
Then he was to go to the tomb of the unknown soldier and later in the day to the Luxembourg palace to receive the diplomatic corps and high officials of the nation when they made their calls of congratulation.

Although there was a great spirit of harmony when the senate and their expiring chamber of deputies assembled here to elect M. Doumer's successor, there also was considerable nervousness.

This was manifested in wholly baseless reports to the effect that Senator Joseph Paul-Boncour and Jean Chiappe, prefect of the Paris police, were dead. M. Paul-Boncour, through assassination, and the police prefect through suicide.

Police officials promptly issued a denial of the report about M. Chiappe, and Senator Paul-Boncour established the fact that he was unharmed by appearing on the tribune at the joint meeting of the senate and chamber.

It was exactly 4:35 p. m. (8:35 a. m. Central Standard Time) when the official tabulation of the presidential voting was announced.

Long In Politics
Albert Francois Lebrun is an old hand in French politics and something of a protégé of Raymond Poincare.

At the age of 53 he becomes the fourteenth president of the French republic, stepping up as did Paul Doumer from the presidency of the senate.

Only a few days ago M. Poincare, battling what may be his last illness, declared he would refuse to doom himself to perpetual retirement. In a way M. Lebrun's election to the presidency carries the wartime president's influence into the Elisee palace.

M. Lebrun was "Poincare's man" many times during the 33 years of his political life.

The new president was elected to the chamber of deputies in 1930. Subsequently Poincare placed him at the head of the sinking fund commission, an institution for reducing the national debt and one of Poincare's favorite projects.

With Poincare's backing, M. Lebrun became the president of the general council of the Department of Meurthe and Moselle, the province which he has represented so long in parliament.

But the fact that Lebrun was a Poincare man never meant that he was merely a "yes man." Three times he was minister of colonies, in 1911, 1912 and 1913. The end of the latter year found him minister of war; in 1917 he was minister of blockade and in 1918 minister of the liberated regions.

Two years later he was elected to the senate where he became an active member of the Union Republicaine group. As head of the sinking fund he established a reputation for probity and carefulness.

Even with his record, however, his chances for achieving the office which now has come to him would not have been so good if it were not for an accident of geography.

Dahl Chairman, Nelson Secretary Of Badger G. O. P. Delegation

ENDORSED AT MEETING HELD IN MILWAUKEE

Conference Urges Reelection of Vits and Mrs. Thomas to Party Posts

Milwaukee (P)—Harry Dahl of LaCrosse, will be chairman, and C. C. Nelson of Appleton, will be secretary of the Wisconsin delegation to the national Republican convention in Chicago next month.

They were endorsed for the posts at a meeting here last night attended by 13 of the 15 regular Republican delegates.

Since the regular control the delegation, 15 to 11, the subsequent ratification of their selections by the entire delegation was virtually certain.

The conference also recommended the reelection of George Vits of Manitowish and Mrs. Harry Thomas of Sheboygan, as Wisconsin members of the national committee and designated Congressman John Schofer, Milwaukee for membership on the resolutions committee, Frank R. Bendley of Madison, on the rules committee, and George Anderson, Kenosha, on the credentials committee.

A resolution favoring a clear-cut declaration by the national convention on the subject of prohibition and protesting against excessive costs of state government and resultant increase in taxation were reaffirmed. The resolutions originally were endorsed at a meeting preparatory to the delegate campaign.

"It is the sense of this conference," one resolution said, "that the Wisconsin delegation use every honorable means to have included in the national Republican platform of 1932 a clear-cut declaration on the subject of prohibition and the eighteenth amendment to the effect that the people of the United States be given the opportunity to express their opinion divorced from all other political subjects, on the question of prohibition."

Hit Bureaucracy Growth

"We view with alarm the growth of bureaucracy in our national government," the other resolution said. "We urge on the national convention of the Republican party a strong plank condemning such policies and advocating that measures be taken which will bring about drastic reduction in the cost of government."

"Not only is this true of the national government, but state and local governments as well. We Republicans of Wisconsin protest emphatically against excessive cost of government that have increased over 1,000 per cent in the past 25 years and pledge ourselves to use our utmost endeavor to reduce this burdensome burden on the back of the taxpayers."

Delegates who attended were: Dahl, Anderson, Nelson, Bendley, Howard Greene, Genesee Depot; Ira Imman, Beloit; Ben Marcus, Muskego; Charles Dittman, La Crosse; Senator Benjamin Gettelman, Milwaukee; Fred Krez, Sheboygan; Frank Schneller, Neenah; Frank Klode, Plymouth, and W. Johnson, Kiel.

Others attending were: Vits, George Gilkey, chairman of the state regular Republican organization, George S. Meredith, William F. Kinsella and Roy Brecke, secretary of the state organization.

PREPARE PLANS FOR NEW CONCRETE LOCKS

Structure to Be Erected at Rapid Croche to Cost $180,000

Plans and specifications for new government locks to replace the old wood and concrete structure at Rapid Croche are in the process of formation, according to Nelson Wightman, federal engineer. According to present plans the new locks will be built on rock several hundred feet above the old structure. The present locks are a big state of repair, and because it was originally constructed on soft ground, erection of a new structure at that point is impossible, he stated.

The government proposes to build the new locks over a period of three years. When completed it will represent a monetary investment of approximately $180,000. It will be built entirely of concrete. The old dam is built of stone and concrete, with a timber door. During the past few years, boats drawing more than six feet of water have been scraping the floor because the old timbers are starting to rise due to erosion of the ground.

RITTER LEADER OF ROOSEVELT P. T. A.

Officers for Ensuing Year Elected at Meeting Monday Night

Herman Ritter, treasurer for the past year, was elected president of Roosevelt Parent-Teachers' association Monday night at the final meeting of that group for the year.

Other officers include Mrs. Henry Johnson, first vice president; George Buesing, second vice president; T. E. Orblson, member at large; Miss Margaret Roome, secretary; and Edgar Milhaupt, treasurer.

The program for the meeting was an instrumental concert presented by the junior high school orchestra, which was followed by a social hour in the gymnasium, under the direction of George Nilsson, chairman of the social committee. The association will convene next fall after school reopens.

Because Benjamin Gigli quit the Metropolitan Opera Company rather than accept a cut in his $100,000 a year salary, Marion Chamlee, noted young tenor, pictured here, is to be engaged for this covered spot, reports have it.

SENIORS PRESENT ANNUAL PLAY AT COLLEGE CHAPEL

Every Role Excellently Portrayed by High School Students

Twelve Appleton high school seniors stepped forth with all the dramatic ease of seasoned performers in the annual class play, "The King Rides By," Monday night at Lawrence chapel, played to an enthusiastic crowd of approximately 1,100 people.

Dispelling once and for all the belief that high school performers necessarily show the earmarks of amateurism, every role in the play last night was portrayed with excellent understanding, fine shading of acting and realistic make-up. No student was outstanding above the others in the three-act comedy, except for the character roles and importance of the different parts as put forth by Lee Owen Snook, author of the mystery romance.

Assisting with the performance, the high school symphony orchestra presented concert music between the acts and during the party scenes of the play. Jay I. Williams directed the music.

William Zuehlke, Jr., gave an exceptionally fine portrayal of the elderly Dorset, judge of a Chicago supreme court, genial host and humorous philosopher. His role really centered the entire plot of the play, through which runs two love themes, and fashionable intrigue to capture a visiting prince.

The role of a wildly gesticulating Italian hermit to a gangster, suddenly thrust by circumstance into a tight necked uniform and a military home was the one with which Donald Peterson kept his audience in uproarious laughter with his evasive and comic lines and peanut-eating tricks.

Subtle conversational by-play between the kittenish second wife of the judge and the title seeking, three times married, former wife provided constant amusement in all their scenes together with Miss Marcelle Haberman portraying the part of Cecily, the present wife, and Miss Follis, smiling the social scheming Baroness with several names. Perhaps the most natural performance was given by Miss Florence Goddard as Valeria, daughter of the Baroness and the judge, although handicapped by a cold. Her voice was exceptionally casual in all her conversations.

The two leads, together with the butler Simmons played by Fred Smith, showed their ability in the early scene in which they reveal their plans as gangsters. Miss Elaine Williams, the feminine lead, showed her versatility as an actress as she played at once the efficient and intelligent maid in the household, the breezy young woman planning crime with Cash Mc Cord whom she loves and the double crossing butler, and the sweet young girl who is ready to begin life over again at the mercy of Judge Dorset.

Plan Job Together

Equally as difficult were the roles of Eumetle Martell, high school athlete, whose entrance to the play was through the window of the mansion which he planned to rob. When the gangster is discovered by Lorinda, his former wife and now maid, and Simmons the butler, the group plan to work together, furnishing the plot. This, in brief, is the fact that the prince, unable to visit the Dorset's, gives the gangster McCord a chance to assume his place. His identity, later, is revealed by a newspaper reporter, taken by Miss Ruth Weinikoff, and the fact that the real prince, become a king, rides by amid a crowd of cheering citizens.

Frank Dean aptly portrayed Captain Ross Wheatley, of the air force, as a valued friend and guest in the Dorset home.

As a pair, Miss Doerflinger and James Neiler, both active in high school dramatics, presented the final act as two young lovers, whose quarrels and sorrow carry lightly the theme of the play. Miss Doerflinger played the winsome role of Deborah Winchell, frivolous niece of the Dorset's, while Mr. Neiler was the stubborn young man in love with her, Hal Stanley.

MAKE FINAL PLANS FOR ANNUAL BARBER'S DANCE

Final plans for the annual May ball, to be given by the Appleton Barber's union, tonight at Rainbow Gardens were made last night. Chester J. Smith is chairman of the committee in charge. The barbers also discussed plans for their annual convention June 12 at Tuscon. William Smith, William Bleier and Fred Buelow are in charge of arrangements for this event.

PROSECUTION OF ATTACK RETRIAL STILL IN DOUBT

Public Wonders How Kelley Can Proceed in Absence of Mrs. Massie

Honolulu (P)—How public Prosecutor John C. Kelley, lacking the complaining witness in the case, would proceed May 25 with the scheduled retrial of four men accused of attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, provided a subject for public speculation today.

With Mrs. Massie and those involved in the sequel to the attack case—the abduction and slaying of Joseph Kahane—on their way to San Francisco, Kelley asserted yesterday he would proceed with the trial. Kahane allegedly confessed participation in the attack.

The prosecutor said he understood Honolulu police had been successful in their effort to serve Mrs. Massie with a subpoena for the attack just before she sailed Sunday. This contradicted statements of Clarence Darrow, attorney and adviser of Mrs. Massie, who said the subpoena had not been served.

Kelley said if Mrs. Massie did not appear in court the morning of May 25 he would request a warrant for her arrest. The prosecutor acknowledged the warrant would have no legal force on the mainland.

The prosecutor said he had instructed Policeman Lono McCallum, one of those who figured in the scene at the sailing, not to use force in attempting to serve the paper because "we want to avoid any further rows with the navy."

Captain Ward K. Wortman, commander of the submarine base here who clashed with Dewey Mookini, another policeman seeking to serve the subpoena, said there had not been any "confusion" on the ship which bore Mrs. Massie and the others away. He said a corridor was so crowded he could not help bumping into Mookini.

Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, commandant of this naval district, said the navy vessel used to put Mrs. Massie, her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and her mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, aboard the liner had not been employed with the thought of helping the navy officer's wife evade the subpoena. He said Mrs. Massie had not been well.

Admiral Stirling said an attempt at Pearl Harbor to start a boycott against local firms had been suppressed.

Mrs. Fortescue, Massie and Albert O. Jones and El J. Lord, navy enlisted men, were convicted of manslaughter for lynching Kahane. A commutation of sentence set them free.

Mrs. Massie, who testified against the men in the attack case, was unwilling to continue it after the outcome of the lynching case.

CHARGE YOUTH DROVE FIST THROUGH DOOR

Just why he became exuberant and thrust a fist through a door at a dance at the exposition building on the Winnebago-co fair grounds Sunday evening, Everett Bethe, Appleton, was unable to explain Monday to Municipal Judge Spengler at Oshkosh. Bethe asserted he was not drunk, though E. L. Nelson, superior who signed the complaint, said he had been drinking. The defendant was charged with maliciously defacing the building.

The Appleton youth stated he intended to make good the damage, and the court withheld sentence until 9 o'clock Thursday morning, after guilty plea had been entered.

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS

Any interpretation of the French elections must at this distance be largely guess work. What appears to have happened is that the combination of factions which have been governing France are defeated while no new combination is clearly in sight. There is some reason to think that France emerges from her elections without having spoken decisively enough to insure herself a strong and stable government.

The names of the French parties are very confusing to any foreigner, and for purposes of general discussion it is better to ignore them. Otherwise, it is necessary to remind ourselves constantly that Mr. Herriot's party, now the largest, is the Chamber, which calls itself Radical Socialist, is in the American sense neither radical nor socialist, that M. Blum's party, the United Socialists, represent a doctrine somewhere between the British Labor Party and the French Communist Party, and that M. Tardieu's party, the Left Republicans, are in fact highly conservative though they sit in the center. For a broad understanding of the position it is simpler to reduce the matter to personalities and to speak of the champions of Tardieu, Herriot and Blum.

The Chamber which has just been elected is the fourth since the War. The first, which sat from 1919 to 1924, was dominated by those who have recently been supporting M. Tardieu, that is to say, by the conservatives. The second Chamber sat from 1924 to 1928. It had a majority composed of those who now follow M. Herriot and M. Blum. But owing to the inability of these two groups to cooperate and deal with the financial crisis, it was the conservatives, led by M. Poincare, who actually governed most of the time. The third Chamber sat from 1928 to 1932. This is the Chamber which will disappear on June 1. It was dominated by a small majority of the conservatives. The fourth Chamber, which has just been elected, is not unlike the second, which sat from 1924 to 1928. There is theoretically a fairly good majority composed of the followers of M. Herriot and M. Blum.

But neither of these men has anything like a majority of his own. Now that the 1932-1936 Chamber, M. Blum's socialists supported M. Herriot's government but refused to participate in it. As a result that government could not govern. During the recent campaign M. Tardieu declared that he would not again make such an arrangement. He declared also that he would not make a combination with M. Tardieu. Therefore, as matters stand, the formation of a government would appear to depend upon some sort of arrangement between two out of the three principal factions.

More specifically, it would seem that the matter must be decided in one of two ways: either M. Blum must agree to join, not merely to support, a Herriot ministry, or M. Herriot must agree to support, though he does not join, a Tardieu ministry. It should be added that a Tardieu ministry need not necessarily include M. Tardieu; I use his name to denote the conservative groups. The net inclusion one arrives at now at this distance is that the composition of the next French government, or perhaps one should say governments, is uncertain and dependent upon complicated maneuver and negotiation.

But this much it is fairly safe to predict. However the next Cabinet is made up, its fate and that of its successor will depend much less upon foreign than upon domestic issues. For France is now entering that phase of the crisis when governmental deficits, taxes, retrenchments, bad business and unemployment are of pressing concern. The period which reached its climax last summer when France seemed immune in the midst of the world crisis, when her political and financial power were irresistible, is over. The French people realize it. They know that the ordeal through which we are passing, through which Britain passed last summer, is now beginning for them.

Their problem, as posed by the outcome of the elections, would appear to be very much like the problem in Washington today: how to form a governing power out of discordant factions and how to obtain concerted, decisive national action which can deal with the financial and economic crisis.

In attempting to forecast the prospects of an international understanding this summer, it is necessary to face the fact that among the five principal western powers only two have governments which are free to take decisive action. These are the British and the Italian. In the other three nations, in Germany, France and the United States, there is at present no governing power which is not the prisoner of its own opposition. In this fundamental respect the position of Dr. Brüning, M. Herriot, and Mr. Hoover are alike. All three are likely to be in office this summer but none of them has much power.

It takes a strong government to be moderate and positive. A weak government is compelled to be inconclusive and to temporize. Therefore, while hoping for the best, and striving for it, it is the part of prudence to look for no decisive and invigorating conclusions this summer in the realm of debts, reparations, and armaments. There is no use becoming depressed and disappointed over an outcome which is now so probable.

Then, if by some turn of fortune, or by the display of some kind of inspired leadership working with an awakened public opinion, the nations should at Lausanne and Geneva really make progress, it will be so much to the good. But no one should count on it. The task before us is to do the things we can and must do to set our own affairs in order, to reconstruct our public finances, to continue the readjustment of costs in industry, to provide relief for the unemployed, and to proceed resolutely with the measures now under way to counteract the deflation of credit. These things have to be done regardless of the prospect in international relations. They will contribute to the solution of the crisis in America whatever is done at Lausanne and Geneva. They would have to be carried through even if the prospects at Lausanne and Geneva were brilliant.

But they would be much easier measures to bear and the results would be more quickly favorable if the western nations, our own most of all, were sufficiently coherent and bold to move decisively for an international settlement.

LANCASTER IS FACING TRIAL

Aviator Indicted on First Degree Murder Charge in Clarke Death

Miami, Fla.—(P)—Captain W. N. Lancaster, former British army aviator, has been indicted for first degree murder in the strange shooting of Haden Clarke, fiancé of his flying partner, Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, Australian aviatix.

The true bill against Lancaster was returned by the Dade-co grand jury yesterday a week after his arrest on a murder warrant, and Judge H. P. Atkinson ordered the filer held without bail for trial at circuit court term opening today.

The accused man accepted notification of his indictment calmly. "Well, I'm innocent until I'm proven guilty," he told a deputy sheriff after refusing to see newspapermen in his cell.

Clarke, 36-year-old author, was fatally shot with a pistol owned by Lancaster April 21. His and Mrs. Keith-Miller, whose life story he was writing for publication, and at whose home he lived, became engaged while Lancaster, formerly her fiancé and for five years her flying partner, was in St. Louis on business.

They were married of their plans to marry, but he telegraphed them to delay the ceremony until he could arrive to be best man.

He came here by plane and twelve hours later, Clarke was fatally wounded. Lancaster and Mrs. Keith-Miller were held in custody for three days, but she was released. Lancaster was released, but was rearrested on a murder charge when a handwriting expert branded as forgeries two suicide notes found beside Clarke's bed in the room he and Lancaster occupied. The prosecutor said the filer later admitted writing them.

Sandino Agent Denounces Moncada Anti-Marines Talk

Mexico City (P)—Dr. Pedro Jose Zepeda, foreign representative of General Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent leader, denounced today a speech made yesterday by President Jose Moncada of Nicaragua in which the president declared Nicaragua was for Nicaraguans and not for United States marines.

"The United States should be proud of the utterances of this man who has only been kept in power by marine rifles and airplanes," Dr. Zepeda said. "Now he is moved by political expediency to denounce even the marines."

Zepeda said that President Moncada, Sandino and himself once fought together to end the Diaz dictatorship in Nicaragua.

"When we were victorious," he said, "Diaz rushed to America for more intervention. Colonel, now Secretary of State Henry Stimson, came down to investigate and bought off Moncada with promises of power and money."

"Sandino, the only Moncada general who refused to be duped in this infamous negotiation, managed to gain the hills and for five years has campaigned against American intervention and Moncada's despotism."

"Millions of American dollars and hundreds of American lives have been wasted in Nicaragua. Much of Latin America's intense dislike for the United States, which translated into commercial channels has materially reduced American commerce with her Latin neighbors, can be traced squarely to American activities against the Nicaraguan people."

"It is high time someone in the United States became aware of the disastrous Nicaraguan folly."

The Mechanism of Any Refrigerator is More Important to You than the Price Tag

LET'S GET DOWN TO THE FACTS on modern refrigeration.

It is misleading to focus all attention on incidental features . . . or on the price tag only. The mechanism is your most important consideration in the selection of a refrigerator. When it fails, service and repair bills commence. Continuous service charges on a "cheap" refrigerator can eat up the very savings modern refrigeration makes. LIQUOR SYSTEM HAS FAILED IN CANADA, CLAIM

Government Doesn't Control Liquor Supply There, Says B. H. Spence

Strenuously objecting to the reported success of the Canadian liquor systems, Ben H. Spence, international representative of the International Prohibition association, told Lawrence college students Monday morning that "the Canadian systems are an unspeakable failure, and that people of the United States are bound to oppose the introduction into the United States of any systems of liquor distribution such as are used in Canada."

Holding that liquor consumption is directly proportional to the facility by which it may be obtained, the speaker produced statistical charts which showed that for a ten per cent increase in population in the last few years, liquor consumption has increased 165 per cent.

Spence also objected strongly to the often heard contention that the Canadian government controls the liquor supply in that country, and maintained that of 5,220 liquor selling places in Canada, 4,395 were privately owned. "In fact," continued Spence, "there is not one drop of liquor sold in Canada that does not take its toll of private profits for private interests. Furthermore, no matter how much the government control argument is emphasized, it cannot be denied that liquor cannot be controlled after it is sold."

Crimine Grows, Claim

In showing the effects of the increased consumption of liquor under the Canadian liquor law, the speaker pointed out that crime of all sorts has increased, as well as industrial and automobile accidents and suicides. "The so called 'beverage halls' and 'beer parlors' of Canada are everywhere as bad as the old time American saloon," declared Spence, "and the conduct one sees in these places compares exactly with the saloon."

In concluding his address, he pointed out that the United States, by its prohibition law, has created a kind of psychological attitude among its people which outlaws the liquor traffic, but that Canada has surrounded it with a cloak of respectability. This latter attitude has, according to Spence, laid the ground for under the best of effective temperance education, and consequently has an evil effect upon the youth of our land.

Remember, Canadian systems of liquor control and distribution are a success only from the standpoint of the profiteer and the drinker, and from the other viewpoint they are an abominable failure," he said.

Manual Arts Drawing Class Is Popular At High School

Involute curves, diametrical pitches of gears and the harmonic or accelerated motion of cams is all in a day's work for junior students in the manual arts drawing class at Appleton high school.

Huddled over their drafting boards, on high stools, the 25 students present a picture of a busy drafting office in a modern machine plant. Their drawings are surrounded by T-squares, official-looking rulers with graduations, triangular squares and all sorts of gadgets to make the funny angles and numerous curves on the white patch of paper before them.

Studying elementary drawing of machinery, these students learn the rudimentary drawing of machine designs such as machine threads, simple cams, more likely known as sewing machine bobbins or the mechanism that operates the valves on automobile engines, and gears.

When their drawings are finished they look complicated and mathematical with angles, circles and queer dotted lines to designate certain meanings. All of these students have studied beginning drawing in their sophomore year at high school, under Harry Cameron, manual arts instructor. In their senior year they are allowed to enter any manual arts class in which they are interested. Among these are the ornamental iron class, cabinet making, and architectural drawing classes for advanced students.

ASSOCIATION WILL ADMIT SEVEN GIRLS

Initiation Ceremony to Be Conducted This Evening at High School

Forty-nine members of the Girls Athletic association will be honored and seven new members initiated at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening at the high school when athletic awards are presented at a special meeting. Miss Lenora May, physical education director, is in charge of the presentation.

The seven initiates include Mary Ann Mueller, Margaret Voss, Pearl Stroede, Julia Van Ooyen, Verdyne Voss, Helen Pivonka and Mildred Marun.

Outstanding awards will be made to five girls who have earned 1,000 points in athletic participation, for which they will receive school letters. Eleven members will receive medals for 600 points and 35 emblems for 150 points.

Under the point system, members of the association work for points on various athletic teams, individual activities such as swimming, hiking and roller skating, placing a position on a class or inter-mural team. Beginning with emblems, the next award is a medal for an accumulation of 600 points and the highest award a school letter, usually won in the senior year.

DUST

Makes Driving DANGEROUS

Driving blind in a dust cloud may have its thrills, yet hide tragedy around the curve.

Blinding dust is a major cause of motor car mishaps. Meeting a one-lighter on a dusky road, in the dark, is a nightmare. Your lights cannot penetrate the dust. You cannot tell which side the light is on. You are forced to decide instantly between two great risks. Shall you cut close, stay on the road and risk a crash? Or shall you give the other car plenty of room and risk a dust-hidden culvert, bridge or curve?

You need not face these possible tragedies, for dust can be stopped in a few hours so that air is clean and lights show ahead plainly.

Just ask local officials to apply moisture-absorbing Dowflake. It puts moisture into the road surface, stops dust in a few hours and holds it for weeks. It is clean, odorless and does not track into homes. It is an economical saver of road surface material. Our book "How To Control Dust" tells how Dowflake works. Write for the booklet today.

Plan To Secure Flour From U. S. Farm Board For Relief Work

CLERK TO MAKE SURVEY TO FIND COUNTY'S NEEDS

40 Town, City and Village Officials Attend Meeting at Courthouse

Plans for securing a quantity of flour from the federal farm board for relief work in Outagamie county were discussed at a meeting of 40 town, city and village officials last night at the courthouse. Anton Jensen, chairman of the county board committee on poor aid, presided. The meeting was called by Mr. Jensen. John E. Hantschel, county clerk, and Arthur P. Jensen, secretary of the Outagamie chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Jensen and Mr. Hantschel were appointed on a committee to supervise distribution of the flour when it arrives at the various towns, cities and villages, and Mr. Hantschel was authorized to make a survey by letter of the needs of the various districts. The letter requests mayors, village presidents and town chairmen to tell how many families are now being given aid; the number of families which will need aid within the next 30 days; the number of families for whom flour is required; the number of 49-pound sacks which will be needed; and who shall be notified when the flour arrives. This information must reach Mr. Hantschel by Saturday.

An effort will be made by Mr. Hantschel to have part of the flour shipped to Appleton and part to Seymour from which points distribution will be made.

Need 200 Barrels

Mayor John W. Goodland, Jr. told the gathering that about 200 barrels of flour would be needed by the city of Appleton during the next 90 days, while Patrick Garvey, chairman of the town of Oneida, estimated the needs in his town at 175 barrels. These two districts will require the largest amounts. At the end of 90 days the districts receiving flour will be required to show how it has been distributed before application can be made for another shipment.

Mr. Garvey explained to the gathering that his town was to receive a portion of its flour through the federal Indian agency at Keshena. A total of 130 barrels is to be given to Oneida Indians in the towns of Oneida, Oneida, and Hobart, Brownco. Of the 130 barrels, 37 are to go to the town of Oneida and the balance of flour will be shipped to Oneida and the balance of the flour is to be sent to Keshena in three trucks, furnished by the towns of Hobart and Oneida and the Indian agency. Mr. Hantschel, Mr. Jensen and Judge Fred V. Heinemann were named on a committee to assist Oneida officials in distribution of the flour among the needy Indians. It was planned to have the distribution centered in the four churches in Oneida.

WRIT IN SCHOOL CASE OVER-ruLED

Supreme Court Decides Against Compulsory Kindergarten Establishment

Madison (P)—The issuance of a preceptory writ of mandamus compelling the school board of Joint School District 2 of the city of Princeton and towns of Princeton and St. Marie to establish a kindergarten was over-ruled by a decision of the supreme court today.

Judge Edgar W. Werner, issuing the writ, "The mothers of 23 children signed a petition to the school board asking for the establishment of the kindergarten but it was rejected by the board. A writ was subsequently issued and the board took the case to the supreme court. Edith Mueller and Martha Hiestand were named as the plaintiffs in the case. The board contended that there was no basis in law for the issuance of the writ, that the board is not physically able to accede to the request, and that some signatures on the petition were obtained by misrepresentation.

Judge Werner ruled that under the statutes the school board would be forced to establish a kindergarten on the petition of 25 residents of the school district.

GUARDSMEN HAVE PERFECT RECORD FOR REGULAR DRILL

A perfect attendance record was hung up by Co. D, 137th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, last night when all 66 men in the company attended drill. It was the first time in almost ten years that a 100 per cent attendance was reported at a regular drill. Federal inspectors usually are the only drills during the year at which perfect attendance is recorded.

One recruit, Francis Crane, joined Co. D last night.

Before the formal drill session Gustav J. Keller, Sr., addressed the men, thanking them for their work in the fraternal day celebration last Thursday. The guardsmen directed traffic on College-ave and cleared the avenue during the parade.

ORDER CUT IN SALARIES OF ROAD WORKERS

Highway Committee Decree, Lowering Wages 10 to 25 Per Cent, Effective May 15

Salary cuts ranging from 10 to 25 per cent were ordered yesterday by the county highway committee for its road and garage employees. The decreases are to become effective after May 15. It was estimated by the highway department this morning that the action would result in the approximate saving of $576 a month.

Members of the highway committee were unanimous in their vote to reduce salaries although there was considerable discussion on the amount of reduction for various employees. These difficulties all were settled, however, by compromise.

The members of the committee, in making their decision, pointed out that the state highway commission has recommended a reduction in wages for county road workers. They said that Outagamie county is paying higher wages than most counties in this vicinity. Waupaca, one member pointed out, has reduced its common workers to a point below that set by the Outagamie county committee yesterday.

The heaviest reduction was made in the salary of the grade foreman whose hourly wages will be cut from 60 to 45 cents. The salaries of truck patrolmen, which are $100 per month, and the salaries of their helpers, $95 a month, are not affected by the new wage scale.

Other cuts ordered by the committee's action yesterday are:

Common labor, from 40 to 35 cents per hour; tar crew foremen, from 50 to 40 cents per hour; grader and tractor operators, from 60 to 50 cents per hour; truck drivers, from 45 to 40 cents per hour; motor grader operators, from $120 to $105 per month; garage superintendent, from 60 to 55 cents an hour; garage mechanics, from 55 to 50 cents per hour; mechanics' helpers, from 45 to 40 cents per hour; stockroom attendant, from $150 to $135 per month; man and team hire, from 65 and 60 to 50 cents per hour.

The committee yesterday also decided to take bids on May 23 on construction of the Flanagan bridge across Maple creek on County Trunk D in the town of Maple Creek. The bridge is to have a 30-foot span and 24-foot roadway.

SPRING WEATHER ON MENU FOR WEDNESDAY

Ideal spring weather is forecast for Appleton and vicinity for tonight and Wednesday, according to the weatherman. Skies will be clear to night and Wednesday, and the mercury is due for a rise tomorrow morning, he says.

Fair weather has been forecast over most of the middle west. Winds are shifting in the north and north-west Tuesday morning, the mercury registered 49 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 61 degrees above.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born May 1 to Mrs. Paul Kourath, 841 W. Lawrence-st, at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Plamann, route 1, Appleton.

PUBLIC ASKED TO VISIT HOSPITAL NEXT THURSDAY

St. Elizabeth hospital, along with other hospitals of the country, is expecting a big day Thursday. The extra influx, however, will not spell calamity, for the people will not be sick, but simply visitors to the hospital institution on National Hospital day.

St. Elizabeth is inviting the public to visit its different departments and see the various types of work done in the hospital. Visiting hours will be from 2 to 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

National hospital day is observed on May 12 because it is the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, who was an important factor in improving hospital management as well as in establishing nursing on its present educational basis. Practically all hospital associations in the United States and Canada cooperate in observance of National Hospital Day.

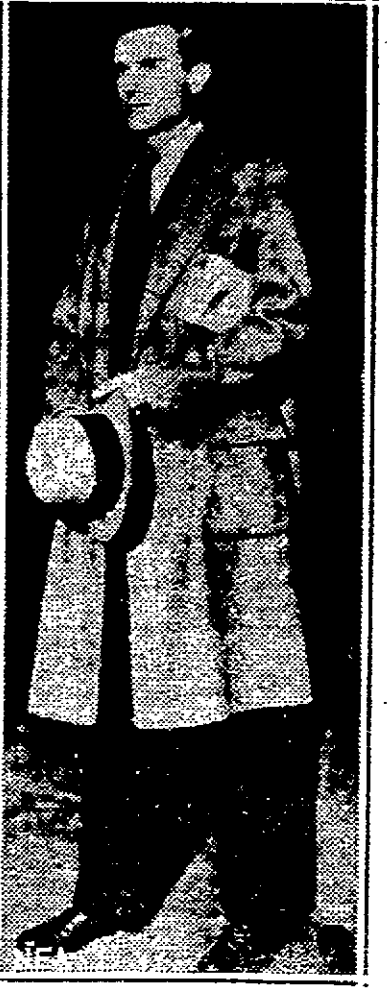

KEEP DOGS TIED DURING SUMMER, OWNERS WARNED

With complaints against unleashed dogs flooding the city hall and the police department, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., stated this morning that strenuous measures will have to be taken if dog owners continue to disobey the city ordinance which takes away the freedom of dogs through the months of May, June, July and August.

Despite the fact that the ordinance went into effect May 1, home owners who have planted gardens or started improving their lawns have been constantly annoyed by the trespassing of dogs. Seeded gardens have been torn up, new shrubbery has been broken, and lawns have been generally damaged by dogs that should be kept tied.

Mayor Goodland stated that unless the ordinance is obeyed it will be necessary to send out police officers with orders to shoot any dogs found running loose.

determination on whether or not the order was erroneous he should have appealed from that order instead of proceeding to violate its terms.

Right Not Affected

"His right of free speech would have been no more impaired or suspended than the right of the innocent defendant who has been erroneously convicted of a crime. Even though he is deprived of his liberty he must await the orderly processes of the law. Any other theory would throw society into confusion, make each man a judge in his own case and be wholly subversive of the power of the people to establish tribunals for the settlement of disputes."

The court held that there is no question of the circuit court's jurisdiction in the sense that it has power to enjoin state officials from enforcing a statute which is invalid.

"As an incident to the exercise of that jurisdiction or power the court had authority to preserve the rights of parties pending final determination of the litigation. This is the power to preserve the status quo. The defendant Beck did not await the final determination of the issues raised but took the law into his own hands and proceeded to determine for himself that the court had no authority to issue the injunction and that the things which he proposed to do did not constitute a violation of the order. If the duty of the defendant Beck both as a citizen and officer of the state to await an orderly determination of the issues raised."

"Courts are an institution set up by society for the orderly determination of disputes," the opinion added. "Much confused thinking results from a failure to distinguish between the court as an institution and the presiding judge through whom the court functions. An affront to the court is not merely an affront to the personality of the presiding judge but is an affront to the people of the state who by their constitution instituted and created the court. When the court speaks the people speak through their duly chosen representative. The contempt punished in this case is not merely a contempt of Judge Zimmerman as presiding judge but is a challenge to the authority of the people who have provided a tribunal."

PLAY PROGRAM FUND VETOED BY GOODLAND

Economy Must Be Practiced by City During These Times, Says Mayor

The council's appropriation of $1,000 for supervised play for the coming summer was vetoed this morning by Mayor John Goodland, Jr.

In his statement the mayor described the city's financial condition at the present time, and pointed out that the resolution appropriating the $1,000 was adopted before the offer of the school board to appropriate another $1,500 for supervised play was presented to the council. He also explained why he did not veto the $500 donation for fire works for the American Legion Fourth of July celebration.

He stated that some members of the council had declared after the meeting that if they had known the $1,000 city appropriation was to be augmented by a $1,500 donation from the school board they would not have voted for the first resolution, as, after all, any monies appropriated by the school board have to be raised by taxation.

Mr. Goodland explained that under present conditions he felt that conservation and economy should be exercised wherever possible, and that supervised play is something that can be eliminated without bringing hardship to anyone. He spoke of the $50,000 for emergency sewer work for unemployment relief which must come out of the general fund, of the bank loans, which now total $70,000, and of the increased cost of the poor department. A total of $5,537 was spent by this department in April, he pointed out.

He did not veto the American Legion appropriation, he said, because he could not feel that it was an extraordinary donation, inasmuch as the American Legion last December turned over to the city poor department fund the proceeds from their boxing bout, which netted $529. He said he felt the $500 appropriation was merely a return of this money.

START WORK SOON ON NEW GOVERNMENT DAM

As soon as the contract for the new dam at Little Chute is awarded construction work will get underway, according to government engineers. Government officials about two weeks ago announced that the C. R. Meyer Construction Co. of Oshkosh had submitted the low bid, but the contract has not yet been awarded.

The new structure, which will be 561 feet across including the sluice section of nine gates, will be erected at an approximate cost of $155,000. The north spillway will be 109 feet long, and the one on the south side of the sluice section is to be 221 feet across. Approximately 3,999 yards of concrete will be poured for the structure.

The theme of the book is woven around the period of the English country gentleman, and the color scheme carried out in various shades of brown. The book has been dedicated to the city of Appleton and the paper industry. Mr. Wiley, as editor, and Orvis Schmidt as business manager, directed the compiling and publication of this year's issue.

HEILIG, CHADEK MATCH FEATURES TENNIS TOURNAMENT

If it were not for the fact that the more slender members of the Appleton vocational school staff of male members is included, it would seem that the forthcoming school tennis tournament would resolve itself into a reducing contest with Heilig and Chadek as the principal contestants. However, the double elimination tournament will get underway as soon as weather permits at Pierce park. Heilig and Chadek will play the opening match. Other matches are as follows: Clyde Caver vs. Carl Bertman, and Jack Notebaart vs. W. Ray Challenor.

HIGH COURT REVERSES VERDICT FOR $800

A municipal court jury's verdict awarding Leslie Hansen, Appleton, $800 in his suit against Frank J. Biron, Milwaukee, and the Oakland Motor Car Co. was reversed today by the supreme court. "Twentieth Amendment" To Constitution Is Advocated By Minister To Sweden

Washington (P)—The American minister to Sweden—John M. Morehead—today advocated before a senate committee a "twentieth amendment" to permit sale of liquor under strict governmental control and only in states desiring it.

He testified with the consent of the state department. Previously the department had declined permission for him to appear before congressional committees to discuss prohibition.

Describing himself as "personally dry," Morehead said "if the question should come up whether we should keep what we've got now or go back to the old conditions, I would vote dry again."

In order to "keep the advantages of what we've got now and get rid of the disadvantages," however, he recommended adoption of the Bratt system used in Sweden.

Morehead said this system has proved "both successful and satisfactory in Sweden."

It provides for a government monopoly under which liquor is rationed out by a system of allotment books.

The minister's words were closely followed by Senators Blaine (R., Wis.), and Walsh (D., Mont.), the only members of the committee present.

A smaller audience than those which have attended most of the previous hearings on resolutions before the subcommittee for repeal or modification of prohibition was present.

The text of the amendment proposed by Morehead to supplement the 15th amendment follows:

Section 1. Upon ratification of this article, the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes within any of the states of the United States, the importation thereof into such states and the exportation thereof from such states, shall not be deemed to be prohibited by any provision of the constitution or any amendment thereto; provided, however, that such manufacture, sale and transportation shall be only from and into such states as may, from time to time, by proper legislation provide therefor; and provided further, that such manufacture and sale shall be exercised only by such states and that such exportation and importation shall be exercised only by the United States.

COLLEGE THEATRE PRESENTS CAPEK PLAY NEXT FRIDAY

"R-U-R" Just Released for Amateur Production This Year

At a fitting conclusion to a dramatic season which included Channing Pollack's "House Beautiful" with a New York cast, and the recent production of the "Perfect Alibi" by the members of the Fox River Valley Little Theatre, the Lawrence college theatre will present next Friday one of the outstanding plays of the last few years, "R-U-R," by Karl Capek.

The play has only this year been released for amateur production, until this time being included in the active repertoire of the New York Theatre Guild. It is not the ordinary type of college or Little Theatre play, and both its theme and its settings startle the imagination in their unusualness.

According to Heyward Brown in the New York World, "the play begins as an extraordinary searching study of the nature of human life and human society. Capek is potentially one of the great men in the modern drama. He has devised a scene at the end of the third act, and in his language anything we have ever seen in the theatre."

Alexander Wolcott said of it, "A remarkable play. It is murder, social satire, done in terms of the most hair-raising melodrama. It has as many social implications, as the most heady of Shavian comedies, and it has as many frank appeals to the human goose-flesh as 'The Bat' or any latter day thriller."

The play is given an unusual setting, suitable for its vastness and modernity, with space stage, steps, and interior lighting producing an almost inhuman effect. The settings are designed so that their unusual lines will reveal to the sight, as the dialogue of the play does to the ear, the thrilling climaxes of one of the most novel bits of dramatic entertainment in recent years.

Tickets for the production will go on sale immediately at Beiling's drug store.

NOTE STEADY RISE IN LEVELS OF FOX RIVER, WINNEBAGO

There has been a gradual rise in the level of the Fox river and Lake Winnebago during the past few days, according to government engineers. A reading taken on the gauge at the Menasha dam yesterday revealed that the water had reached 12 inches above the crest. The maximum level established by the government is 21 1/2 inches above the crest.

Heavy rains during the past few days have caused the increase. As soon as the water rises a few more inches sluicing to control the level will get underway. A reading taken on the gauge at New London yesterday revealed that the water of the Wolf river has risen to 5.5 feet. A week ago the gauge showed the level at 3.4 feet.

STOCK TRADERS ENCOURAGED BY TURN IN EVENTS

Weekend News from Washington Brings Improvement on Exchange

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York — It goes without saying that traders in the stock market are greatly encouraged at the turn of events in Washington at the weekend. They have reason to be encouraged. The shilly-shallying in congress has been the greatest depressive factor in the market for weeks and any sign of improvement in that direction could not fail to help stocks.

It is easy to say that the unexpectedly large wage reduction announced by the United States Steel Corporation was also an influence for higher prices. That is the traditional and professional attitude, and undoubtedly the news did lead to short covering. It must not be overlooked, however, that this drastic cut in labor costs is a direct reflection of the blight in which the industry finds itself and that, while reduction in expenses may increase net income, what is really needed in steel, by the railroads, and everywhere else in industry, is more business.

Then, too, the market was due for some sort of recovery after so long and so continuous a decline. More could be made of this point if there had been a larger short interest outstanding, but it deserves some consideration. Taking everything into account, the outlook is more favorable than it has been in weeks, but it is not yet entirely convincing. Congress has yet to prove a changed attitude by its works and the cuts in costs which other corporations besides U. S. Steel are making have yet to show in income accounts before too much can be taken for granted. Incidentally, there is reason to believe that there is room for further economies in many other large organizations and that they will be cut into effect.

The oil group is the one looked upon with the greatest favor by those working for higher prices. Developments in this field have been constructive in a greater degree than anywhere else. The proposed new bill by the larger Standard Oil units has turned attention toward the petroleum stocks. One company has resumed dividends and another, an independent, has reported increased profits for the first quarter this year compared with the similar period a year ago.

The oil stocks never shared to any great extent in the bull market inflation. It would be in keeping if they should be the leaders in the recovery.

The market faces no dividend meeting this week of comparable importance to those of General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey, both of which acted last week. The next is that of American Telephone & Telegraph, on May 18, which is expected to declare the regular rate.

Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE
"TAURUS"

If May 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:35 a. m., and from 2:20 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

The physical, mental and emotional sides of life will be more stressed than material affairs on May 11th. Most illnesses will be those of the mind, and these can be cured by mental stimulus and by proving all things and only holding on to that which is good. In affairs of the heart, patience and restraint must be shown, as any sudden impulse will only estrange the object of affection.

The child born on this May 11th will pick things up very quickly, but will not have the retentive or accurate memory which usually accompanies a less rapid brain. It will be capable of doing spectacular feats, but will lack the enduring qualities necessary for slow and substantial building of any kind.

Born on May 11th, you are a most self-reliant and self-sufficient being, and in an indifferent way experience considerable happiness. You are too self-centered and selfish, however, to ever experience that divine happiness and blissful contentment which can only come through more selfless love and service. You are a pretty shrewd bargainer with the world, and you usually get whatever you go after. What life gives is what you take from it, and as yet you do not value properly many simple things of life which you pass by unnoticed.

When in an amiable mood, you are a most agreeable companion, full of life, merriment, and optimism. When your temper is on edge, you display a side of self which is not flattering. You are gloomy and pouty as a woman, and testy and grumpy as a man. You take it out on all who are unfortunate enough to be in reach of your tongue. You are so strongly afflicted with a sense of your own superiority that even an implied criticism offends you.

In dealing with a problem you dig straight for the roots, eager to find out if there is anything healthy upon which to build. You have an an-

DAIRY FARMERS WON'T FACE MILK PRICE CUT

Chicago—(P)—The dispute between dairy farmers and Chicago retail milk dealers over a proposed cut in the wholesale price of milk has been ended, and under the terms the farmers will continue to get $2.61 a hundred pounds of milk and consumers here benefit by a retail reduction of 1 cent a quart.

The adjustment was announced Saturday by Dr. Clyde L. King of Philadelphia, who was called in as arbitrator, and ended talk of a strike on part of the farmers. They had threatened to withhold their product from the market if the cut became effective.

The retail leaders held the wholesale reduction necessary to help them lower the price to the consumer. They agreed, however, to shoulder themselves any loss that may grow out of the retail cut should wage cuts accepted by their employees prove insufficient to cover it.

The new price per quart will be 11 cents, effective tomorrow.

579 SUICIDES IN STATE DURING 1931

Madison—(P)—Murder and suicide accounted for more than two per cent of Wisconsin's 29,292 deaths recorded in 1931, the bureau of vital statistics, state board of health, said today.

There were 579 suicides, marking an increase of 29 over the number in 1930 and representing a new high mark, the records revealed. There were 87 homicides in 1931, representing an increase of eight over the 1930 total. In June and in September last year the suicide total was 64, equalling the maximum monthly toll recorded in May, 1930.

JOB ON INCREASE IN WISCONSIN MILLS

Rise One Per Cent from February to March 15, Report Shows

Madison—(P)—Factory employment in Wisconsin increased almost one per cent in the period February 15 to March 15, 1932 but there was no increase in payrolls, the state industrial commission reported today.

Factory employment on March 15 was two-thirds of that in 1925, 1926 and 1927, the commission said. There were 115,912 wage earners in 1,112 factories on Feb. 15 and 114,166 on March 15 of this year.

A crop of one fourth in the number of men working on building construction in March was shown as compared with the number employed a year ago, less than half as many were employed as in March, 1930 and slightly more than one-third of the number employed in March, 1929.

From Feb. 15 to March 15, 1932, ten cities increased both employment and payrolls, 11 cities decreased both employment and payrolls, eight cities increased employment but decreased payrolls and two cities increased payrolls but decreased employment.

The 10 cities which increased both employment and payrolls are Ashland, Beloit, Crippewa Falls, Kenosha, LaCrosse, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Watertown, Wausau and Wisconsin Rapids.

The 11 cities which decreased both employment and payrolls are Appleton, Beaver Dam, Janesville, Madison, Marinette, Milwaukee, Neenah-Menasha, Plymouth, Wausau, West Allis and West Bend.

The cities which increased employment but decreased payrolls are De Pere, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Racine, Rhineland, Stevens Point and Two Rivers.

The cities which increased payrolls but decreased employment are Fond du Lac and Superior.

Short Casts Are Better For Catching Black Bass

BY BERT CLAFLIN
Just as a tip for you, fellows, some time after the bass season opens in June, make a trip out to the Menominee reservation, turn east and drive out to the lakes there.

Claflin

You are apt to find some of the best fishing in a state's fishing grounds in that wild surprise you. I did. The bass were plentiful and very willing to strike. We used the pork rind lures that travel deep, and that is what you want when you fish such lakes as I have spoken of.

On another occasion I used them to very good advantage on some lakes up near Mercer. They were similar to those of the reservation. Along at least one side great masses of lily pads grew, and along those aquatic parks we got our bass. Do not make the mistake of casting too far. It is not at all necessary. On most of these twenty-five or thirty foot lily pads, by casting long short casts you can far more easily control your lure. By using the lures I have mentioned let them travel just a few inches below the surface if there are weeds below. Otherwise, deeper is all right. The Oswego hold forth in such weedy places, and they are on the watch for anything that looks like a meal to them. It may sound queer, but if these lures, used either with pork rind or the hair attachment, does not bring the strikes as you think they should try the Remove the pork rind strip or feathers and in place of them substitute a real small frog. I think the reason the bass hit such an arrangement so greedily is because the lure itself is a glittering one and they see it more readily.

Full of Fish
While we are speaking of bass fishing, let me tell you of one of those lakes above Mercer. It is called Ecco Lake. It is not what might be called deep, being perhaps ten to twelve feet in the deepest parts. This lake has a great extent of lily pads in the southern end, and what will sound a bit strange to experienced bass fishermen, it has an abundance of small mouth bass. Those fish usually like fast water, or at least water having rocky bottoms and being devoid of weeds. Yet Ecco Lake is the opposite and it has small mouth bass. We had a wonderful two hours sport there at one time. My pal used the lures I have told you of with pork rind strip, while I fished up my fly rod for the sport of it, and used dry fly floater flies. We caught bass about equally on these widely different lures. In fact, we caught a great many over the limit, but these we returned to the water unharmed. A bass is not like a brook trout. He will live if returned to the water after being hooked, whereas a very small portion of trout will survive the mere hooking.

DO YOU INHALE?
Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?
Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.
Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!
Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

LOST: $100,000
Gaston B. Means, in inducing Mrs. McLean to part with $100,000 upon the promise of delivering it to the kidnappers in return for the Lindbergh baby, has demonstrated again what a man with an amazingly persistent lack of principle, coupled with an equally amazing disposition to intrigue, may manufacture out of public discords or the woes of others.
Mr. Means' record is quite an open book. He has been tried twice for murder. Once the jury disagreed and the next time it acquitted him. He was the only one present when a woman was shot to death. He claimed an accident. He produced a will through the terms of which, and by reason of a contract with another, he would have made a million dollars out of the death. The court held the will a forgery.
He has served two terms in a federal penitentiary, one for conspiracy and one for perjury.
He appears to be a throwback from the fifteenth century, a fit comrade for Cesare Borgia, the original Valentino, if not a reincarnation of the duke himself.
When Harry Daugherty was attorney-general Means rode high, wide and handsome. Those were the good old days and under Daugherty he was in his happiest mood. Then money was as free as the liquor was straight, and the attorney-general was a man to his own liking. Daugherty had a genius for dissembling that made Means' lips part in a constant smile of admiration, but, like two-comrade wolves come upon hunger, they fell out and started to tear each other.
Unfortunately there are quite a number of Means in the country although Gaston B. seems to be a leader in dark and crafty plots. Certainly his experience in public jails and along devious ways fitted him to write the book appearing under his name, "The Strange Death of President Harding." The Literary Guild of America must have felt complimented at this addition to its numbers.
Men of this stamp regard all passions, natural, base or exalted, as valuable adjuncts to the game they wish to play of getting something without deserving it. They fit well into the description made of Fouché, Napoleon's reptilian Minister of Police, he who "was inscrutable in the moment of action and only became comprehensive long after the event." Almost invariably they insist upon doing the thing to be done in an improper manner even if a straight method would be better.
They are incredibly shrewd and incredibly dishonest, glib talkers with light fingers and the dependability of a leopard. The victim often sees a soft and watery kindness of eye but forgets that the same thing may be seen in the eye of a crocodile.
All of the defrauder's ingenuity is spent upon getting the money. Little of it is expended on trying to soften the blow. Blandishments may induce the victim to enter the trap but a workable system has not yet been devised by these outlaws to avoid retaliation either from the defrauded or at the hands of the law.
STRIKING OUT BLINDLY
Students at Wisconsin who are in sympathy with Tom Mooney have declared they will not eat California oranges.
People in many places throughout the country who have compassion for the Massies declare they won't eat Hawaiian pineapples.
Some wets who do not like the slippery way southern states conduct themselves in regard to prohibition assert they will consume no southern products.
If all of these declarations were taken at their face value we would know that people had become hysterical. Of course, there will be no general action by the people along such gushing and impetuous lines. The attitude is a childish one. Its natural result will be to frown at heaven if the weather is not propitious. Must we have retaliation for every difference of opinion? Shall vengeance be the cry against every part of the country momentarily in disfavor? Must we return to the days of the blood feud, the ruthless vendetta?

The world is having enough troubles without any sort of boycotts or blacklists, even little ones. Certainly we don't want anyone boycotting Wisconsin dairy or fruit products. And we hope that thousands of innocent men may not be thrown out of employment by a refusal to purchase the products manufactured by our many paper mills.
Every step of this sort is a mixture of intolerance and bewilderment. The university student might be punishing California fruit growers who were doing their best to get Tom Mooney out. There were thousands in Hawaii who grow pineapples and sympathized with the Massies. There are hundreds of thousands in the south who have no use for prohibition and little regard for the actions of their representatives in congress.
Coercion in any form is a bitter, distasteful thing. Freedom of intellect, the freedom to think plus the freedom to openly state one's honest thoughts is the very essence of all liberty. Punitive efforts to stifle honest thought or action present a deformed notion of the rights of others.
MUSICAL LEADERSHIP
The central Fox river valley conclusively demonstrated its leadership in music last Saturday when the high school bands and orchestras from Appleton, Menasha and Neenah won the lion's share of prizes at the state band tournament at Wisconsin Rapids. Led by the Appleton band and orchestra, the musical organizations of these three cities won not less than three dozen prizes in the tournament, far outdistancing any similar group of cities from anywhere in Wisconsin.
While residents of all three cities have every reason to be proud of their school musical organizations, Menasha can take particular pride in the fact that the two bands representing their city won first and second place in the parade which was one of the outstanding features of the tournament.
Appleton high school can be particularly proud of the achievements of its band and orchestra. A total of twenty-eight prizes were awarded Appleton organizations, ensembles and individuals for excellent work in competition, a record of prizes not approached by any other school entered in the tournament.
This achievement is the direct result of painstaking and systematic effort not only on the part of those directly engaged in teaching music but by education and civil authorities responsible for providing the means for this instruction. It was only a few years ago that Appleton Lions club began in a relatively small way to encourage a high school band, never dreaming that the present day organization would result from their effort. It has meant hard work and some little sacrifice on the part of the taxpayer who has footed the bills but the accomplishments have been worth both the effort and the cost.

Opinions Of Others
IF THE DRY PARADED
Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, is keen, he says, for the proposed nationwide parade for legalized beer.
If all the wets marched, including "saloon keepers and bartenders," said Dr. Wilson, the demonstration would give the "intelligent Americans" a complete view of the "assortment opposing prohibition."
But how about a dry parade, Dr. Wilson? You could lead off with such professed dries as yourself, Bishop Cannon, Senator Hefflin and President Hoover.
The calling would come from friends of prohibition, the boys who profit from the Eighteenth Amendment—and these would be the rum runners, the beer runners, the nondescript underworld characters who hang on the fringe of prohibition and its attendant rackets.
Then could trail elaborate floats of beer and whiskey trucks, Rum Row on wheels and Campbell's men making a raid.
And in case you need a grand marshal who would be more fit than the man prohibition made rich—Al Capone—that is, if the government would release him long enough for the Dry Parade?—New York World-Telegram.
The hour of the week during which you can drive your automobile with the least chance of having a fatal accident is Tuesday, between four and five in the morning, according to an insurance company's survey.
The Hudson River once flowed southwest, crossing the Palisades and Watchung mountains of New Jersey to reach Raritan Bay, rather than passing Manhattan Island on its way to New York Harbor, according to Dr. Douglas Johnson, of Columbia University.
The Greek navy is composed of two cruisers, eleven destroyers, eleven torpedo boats, four mine-layers, six submarines and other craft.

POST-WOMEN
PERU had such a nice little revolution the other day... sailor communists grabbed off two thirds of the Peruvian navy... that meant two boats... the rest of the navy... four submarines... went out to quell 'em... they were quelled... and the populace stood on the shore of the harbor and cheered lustily... there's nothing drier about a South American revolution... the natives know how to put one on—they've had lots of experience...
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday—all just past. Rain, in greater or lesser quantities on each day. Usually greater. No wonder everybody's gloomy. Or are they? Maybe they just look that way.
France, apparently dissatisfied with the way things are going, seems on the way toward getting a new government. Once each four years, whether they need it or not, or whether it should have happened some time before the end of the four years, the people of these United States get around to having an election. The dissatisfied ones do no end of complaining and shouting. And forget to vote.
That's a queer twist of fate—a veteran race horse driver is run down and killed by a hit-and-run car.
In fact, if fate doesn't begin to twist the other way in a lot of things, there'll be a lot of revolutions which won't have the glamor of the Peruvian comic-opera affair we mentioned above.
Which shows what a week of grey skies can do to a fellow's disposition.
Boop boop a doop, hey hey and hot cha. Don't mind it. Just trying to cheer you up a bit. Boop boop.
There's a gent down in Turkey who's 115 year old and claims to be a wrestler. Dunno but what—after the way American promoters work and considering the number of wrestling groups and "the world's" champions—a smart handler of wrestling material could make him a champ in no time at all.
The grunt and groan business is usually determined in headquarters of business, not on the mat.
That the Turkish centenarian-athlete lives on goat's milk also provides a good course of promotional material. Sure—wouldn't "Hussain Agha, the Gandhi of Turkey" make a big gate-swelling title?
However, a disillusioned public is beginning to lose a little faith in the various rackets: governmental, business and law-enforcement as well as athletics.

FATHER'S PROBLEM
What do you do when a young fellow comes And sits in the parlor and twiddles his thumbs, Or settles himself in your favorite chair And acts just as though he'd a right to be there? When you know very well why he's hanging about, Do you call a policeman and have him thrown out?
When you come home at five for a pre-dinner nap And you find on the sofa that dreamy-eyed chap, And four times a week, though expenses you trim, The maid sets a place at the table for him, Where he ogles your daughter the whole meal-time through— Tell me, you fathers, what is there to do?
When mother keeps saying the young man's all right, But you're certain yourself that he's not very bright, And you don't like his necktie, his collar or shoes, Is it wise to start warfare you're certain to lose? When he borrows your car and your gasoline, Is there something to stop this a father can do?
I know what's on foot and I seem to recall A father to whom I gave no thought at all. I was after his daughter, and thought he or no, When I entered I thought he should get up and go. So I fancy when young men are prompted to woo, There is not very much that a father can do. (Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest)

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

NEVER WORRY ABOUT A THING THAT CAN'T HAPPEN.
One of the chief causes of the phobic habit is the autointoxication obsession.
Autointoxication means poisoning of the body by its own excretions. It is a morbid, depressing theory based on total ignorance of physiology, pathology and hygiene. So far as the layman's experience or observation is concerned, autointoxication can't happen, and that's an assertion that defies contradiction.
Autointoxication may occur—we are not certain about this, but it is fair to assume that it may occur in the course of certain very grave illnesses. If or when it does develop as a result of such a grave or fatal illness, no cathartic, enema or other such measure can be of any avail. Radical surgical attack is usually the only remedy that can save the patient in such a plight.
I am perfectly conscious that some fine old physicians have stoutly espoused the notion of autointoxication, and that here and there a nice easy going old timer still prescribes remedies or treatments which purport to correct or overcome such self-poisoning. That does not in the least alter the fact that autointoxication can't happen except in the last few hours of some fatal illness and then it is only an effect of the illness.
Any victim of this morbid obsession who is sophisticated enough to discriminate between competent and incompetent teachers, between honest physicians and humbugs, between scientific health advisers and faddists, can readily learn by keeping tabs on the ideas or teachings of these various individuals, that the autointoxication trick is used almost exclusively by the wrong 'uns. And the crooked and shadier they are the more blaring and unpleasant the picture or suggestion of autointoxication they offer the prospect they hope to sell the treatment.
It was a physician, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, who said it would be better for the human race and worse for the fishes if all physis were consigned to the bottom of the sea. "Physis" as the poet used the term, means all medicines. Physis, as I use the term, means laxatives. I believe it would be a great boon for the health of the race if all physis, not only medicinal but these glorified enemas and colon filling stations, and imported bird seed and funny food and eke a lot of nice white mineral oil or paraffin were cast into the sea. Probably a good many victims of physis habit would suffer from headaches—no anxiety headaches—for four or five days, but presently they'd cheer up and smile again when they found everything coming out all right.
Anxiety about any retardation or inadequacy of alimentary function is a common cause of headache, malaise and that dull, mean feeling which the credulous ones attribute to "autointoxication." Plenty of near-doctors or queer-doctors to cater to the obsession, too.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Corn Medicine.
For years we used your corn cure with great satisfaction but when we moved we lost the formula... (T. H. B.)
Answer—Had you lost your shoes you wouldn't need any corn medicine. Go barefoot as much as possible. If the shoes are correctly fitted, they will be little or no trouble from corns. The formula is thirty grains (30 grains) of salicylic acid dissolved in half an ounce (5 ounces) of flexible collodion. Paint corn or callus with this daily for a week or 10 days.
Theoretical Danger.
Is it dangerous to lick postage stamps or flaps of envelopes, I mean when one has a great many of them to mail? (A. W.)
Answer—Theoretically, yes. Practically, no. I have licked thousands of 'em with impunity.
Acne Bacteria.
Do you remember the vaccine treatment of acne? How long does it take and what does it cost? (A. A. O.)
Answer.—In obstinate chronic cases a bacterin prepared by the bacteriologist from a culture taken by the physician in the individual case is often beneficial. The good effects of such treatment are not apparent until several weeks after the injections. So-called stock or shotgun (ready-made) bacterins (bacterial vaccines) are of questionable value. Please do not ask me about costs, fees or terms—that is not within my province.
What Is Reasonable?
... angry looking red bunch. Could you advise me of a doctor who would remove this as near as possible at a price that is reasonable for a person in moderate circumstances... (F. W. J.)
Answer—I cannot give such advice. Neither can I select physicians within specified distances from correspondents' places of abode. This is a large country and I have some howling to do as well as answer letters.

The Tinymites
By Hal Cochran
THE messenger bird just looked around, quite satisfied that it had found the skinny who had stowed away inside the Tinies' boat.
The Tinymites were puzzled when it suddenly cried out again. The bird would shake all over when a sound came from its throat.
Then Scouny to the skinny said, "Explain this, son. Go right ahead. It seems you've seen this bird before. What is it doing here?"
"And do you think I'll start a fuss, perhaps by biding some of us? We want to be all set to fight, if there is cause for fear."
"Yes, tell us quickly what to do," wee Duncy snapped. "It's something new to have a great bird like that just calmly sit and stare."
"If it just wants to rest a bit upon our boat, we don't mind it, but if it wants to fight we'll chase it right up in the air."
The little skinny sadly sighed and then jumped up and boldly cried, "Now, don't you worry about that bird. It's friendly as 'bout the birds."
"You see, it lives in my home land and makes all skinnies stay on hand. The other skinnies missed me and they sent the bird for me."
"And thus no harm will come to you, if I do what I ought to do. If I walk right up to the bird I'll grab me good and tight."
"And soon I'll sail off in the air. The strength of that bird's really rare." And then the skinny, to the bird, said, "Come, let's start our flight!"
The bird began to flap its wings and, my, but they were great big things. And then it grabbed the skinny and sprang up with all its might.
"Goody!" the skinny loudly cried. "I'm homeward bound, upon this ride." The Tinies waved and waved until the bird was out of sight. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)
(The Tinies meet a funny old fellow in the next story.)
A Washington newspaper has announced that it will print a list of all senators who employ relatives. It could save a lot of space if it printed the ones who don't.

A Bystander In Washington
BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Whatever else Tom Hefflin impressed on those gentleman of the senate, whom he refers to as my "one-time comrades," his recent appearance to argue his election contest perhaps left no doubt in their minds that he is as great a showman as ever.
Alice Roosevelt Longworth is said to have once told Hefflin:
"Tom, you'll probably never get many people to agree with you but you're the greatest showman in congress."
He proved the truth of the latter part of this statement when he appeared before the senate the other day to "tell the truth" about the Alabama election in which he was defeated. He seemed to forget nothing—not one of the tricks so much a part of him.
Of course the Hefflinesque style of dress—that long, black coat, creamy vest, black bow tie and prince-nez on flowing black ribbon—was in evidence.
Delights The Galleries
But that played a minor part. It was the antics of "Cotton Tom" himself that delighted those packed galleries and human-lined walls of the senate chamber.
Repeated raps of the gavel were necessary to restore order after one of Hefflin's cracks. Once Senator Moses, president pro tem, of the senate, warned that if the spectators were not discreet he would order the galleries cleared.
The laughter was provoked when Hefflin referred to Black of Alabama as the state's junior senator, completely ignoring Bankhead's claim. And at other times when his mimicry and old ability to tell funny stories to illustrate a point dropped up the galleries and senators, too, were unable to restrain themselves.
Standing by the desk of Senator Swanson of Virginia, absent at the Geneva disarmament conference, and with papers laid out on the desks of both Ashurst of Arizona and Walsh of Montana, who were not present, Hefflin held forth.
He addressed himself almost entirely to the republican side, turning now and then to look straight at Sheppard of Texas, who sat at his feet, or to wave in the direction of Black and Bankhead.
He "Carried On"
It would be interesting to know just what the effect would have been had he finished when his allotted time of two hours was up. He had a goodly number of senators listening closely until at Norris' request he was given permission to proceed as long as he wished.
Granting of that request—25 minutes before his time would have been up—seemed to have somewhat lessened the effectiveness of his appeal. Almost immediately senators began drifting from the chamber. Members of the house who had flocked to the senate in droves began to disperse.
Most of them knew by experience Hefflin's ability to talk indefinitely. They have seen him carry on for a long time when he appeared to be much more fagged than he did after those two hours.

On May 10, 1918, it was announced that 250,000 Italian troops had been concentrated in France to swell the ranks of the allied armies against the German offensive.
This drain on Italy's forces was said not to weaken the Italian front which, at the same time, was preparing for a threatened Austrian push.
British troops succeeded in restoring their line at Albert, which had been broken by Germans the day before.
Rumania dissolved its Parliament and new elections were ordered. In Hungary, too, politics were getting the front page. A new cabinet, headed by Dr. Wekerle, was formed.

Well, well. The Senate has found out that the banks have quit lending money. Who'll volunteer to tell that august body who won the last world series?
The best way to avoid lending money is to pretend to be asleep, a wisecracker says. Another way would be to tell all your friends you used to be a banker.
A French newspaper says the German people have lost all control over themselves. What it means is that France has lost control.

SENATE DRIVE FOR MODIFIED U. S. SALES TAX

Leaders Believe House Will Accept Plan if Adopted by Other Branch

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1932, By Post Pub. Co., Washington. A bi-partisan drive in the senate for a modified sales tax to net at least $600,000,000 in revenue and make unnecessary some of the taxes already adopted by the house has been begun.

Senator David Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrat, is leading the fight which will be added on the Republican side by Senator Fred of Pennsylvania and Smoot of Utah.

The plan is to recommend a 1 per cent sales tax with exemptions on certain necessities of life as an amendment to the general tax bill which was reported Monday to the senate. The belief is that if the senate can reach an agreement, the house will accept the plan after the usual conference procedure.

Many members of the house who voted against the manufacturers' tax insist that if the rates had been lower they might have approved it. Also members who have received bitter protests against the substitute taxes know that as between the house bill and the manufacturers' tax they would be justified in assuming that many of their constituents would prefer the sales tax.

Undoubtedly a revision of the present income tax laws will also be necessary but the cry that this is no time to put a specific burden on industry is being raised just as the experts are beginning to doubt whether it would bring in the revenue needed to balance the budget anyhow.

APPLETON JACES TO ATTEND STATE MEET

A delegation of Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce members is planning to attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Junior chamber at Fond du Lac Sunday, May 22. Approximately 50 representatives are expected from Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Appleton and Eau Claire.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press New York — When on July 16, 1929, George W. Wickersham wrote Governor Roosevelt, delicately suggesting that the states might be given a try at liquor control, his letter was interpreted by many commentators as an administration "hallon d'es sai." One senator said "The administration has a plan, fore-shadowed by Mr. Wickersham's sham's proposal, and it will be an issue of the 1932 campaign." No one offered any proof of this, but, at any rate, here's Mr. Wickersham again, with a proposal for re-submission to state conventions of the question of a referendum.

Those seeking a synthesis of Mr. Wickersham's views and attitudes have gone far afield. They have hopefully predicated his spokenmanship for Mr. Hoover on the fact that he is of Quaker ancestry and that he was educated in engineering. Equally pertinent is the fact that both are Caucasians and never rode a bicycle.

The veteran corporation lawyer—he's 73 years old—reads Dante in the original, and in his approach to public problems is characterized by both finesse and detachment.

Both vees and dries claimed him when he was made chairman of the president's law enforcement commission, and both claimed a victory when his report was received and filed with contents noted. In his work in penology, culminated by the Wickersham report, one also finds expressions of conflicting schools of thought. He advocates such basic abolition of stunts, decent recreation and the start of reform with early education, and he also advocates the whipping post.

For forty-nine years, now, Mr. Wickersham has practiced law in New York, with many of the great corporations for his clients. They have found his astuteness and his unflinching honesty. With his white moustache, his round spectacles, his alert, easy and agile movements, he is one of the most aloofly distinguished figures of the American scene. He is devoted to Wagner, delves into such erudite books as Professor Eddington's "The Nature of the Physical World," and reads the French, Spanish and Italian classics. He is a distinguished layman of the Protestant Episcopal church, and was attorney-general in the Taft administration.

Wilson Mizner isn't exactly in the news today, but he touched off something that is. Coral Gables is being refunded, say the headlines, and it was Mr. Mizner who dreamed the Florida dream town in 1923 and rolled out of bed in 1925.

Huge, bald, lumbering and still wisecracking at 55, the most chromatic of all modern soldiers of fortune now pops epigrams around the Warner lot in Los Angeles. He sluiced gold for three years in Alaska and lost it all in a faro game. He married the widow of the traction magnate, Charles T. Yerkes, just after she had inherited $7,500,000. He had a grandstand seat at a brace of South American revolutions. He shared playful and ebullient years in San Francisco, his home town, with such perennial spoofer as Jimmy Brit, Sam Berger, Eddie Graney and Jim Coffroth.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

He wrote plays with Paul Armstrong, among them "The Jimmy Valentine." He ran a hotel in forty-ninth street, Manhattan. "May I receive a young man in my room," asked a demure young woman. "We have no troublesome restrictions of any kind," said Mr. Mizner, in his high, shrill voice. "All that we ask is that you bury your own dead and don't smoke hop in the elevator."

Posthumous narratives are not ordinarily included in this department, but here's Ferdinand Bornstein who happily projected himself into the world of the quick when he died a year ago. He provided in his will for a grand party for 300 of his Newark, N. J. friends, a year after his death. Last night, it was given, confound, as he had wished.

Ninety years old, was was dying, "Send for the rabbi," he whispered, almost with his last breath. "Then when the angel comes looking for an old party he may get him instead of me." DROP FALSEHOOD, PASTOR ADVISES

Increase Mother's Religion, Dr. J. A. Holmes Says in Sermon

"The great need of our time is an increase in our mother's religion, an increase in that steadily burning, persistent passion for private and public righteousness which comes to men and women who live with God and pray," declared Dr. J. A. Holmes in his Mother's Day sermon at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

"As a good mother looks after the morale of her family, so it is the task of the followers of Christ to build the morale of the world. But it must begin with you. Let us be free of sham and falsehood, and in that way best honor our mothers and our mothers' God."

Speaking of the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration, and the people who founded Appleton, Dr. Holmes asked if Appleton citizens would have been as willing to show Amos Shoy, Appleton's first mayor, their private lives as they were to show him the new buildings, new schools, etc.

Depended On Honesty

"The mothers and fathers of the past built upon a foundation of honesty, truthfulness and morality," he said. "Upon this Mother's Day we can do no better than to consider what we have done with the heritage of faith, hope and courage bequeathed to us by those sturdy pioneers whom we now honor."

For good habits, but even more for the religious impulse which most

Streams In Southern Part Of State Have Big Trout

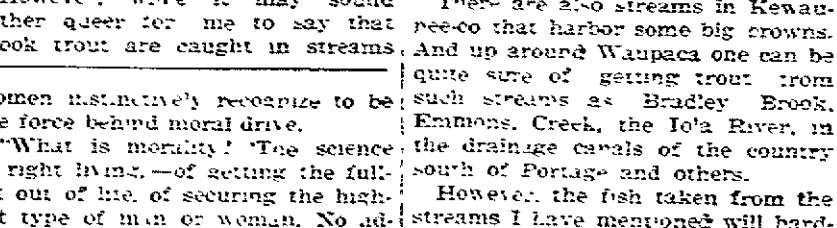

BY BERT CLAFIN

The first impression one has when catching brook trout is mentioned is that to get these fish one must travel well into the northern part of the state. To get them of any size as a general rule, and in numbers approximately a ton, the bag limit, it is necessary that the angler look for them in streams that are not too much frequented—and that means badly fished out.

However, while it may sound rather queer for me to say that brook trout are caught in streams, women instinctively recognize to be the force behind moral drive.

"What is morality?" The science of right living,—of acting the fullest type of man or woman. No advance in morality has been made apart from religion. Man must, to reach his best, be filled with something not himself.

Talking of the need for stressing common honesty, truthfulness and cleanliness in private life, Dr. Holmes said that modern society offers a sinister spectacle of a religion which dispenses with moral and moral morality which dispenses with religion.

away down in the southeastern corner of Wisconsin, such is a fact, nevertheless. In LaFayette-co they are catching brown, speckled and rainbow trout right now, with the rainbows predominating. Such streams as Word, Burg, Smock, Copper, Hammerly creeks and Lovett's Branch are producing trout this season, according to reports that have come to me.

Aid over in Sheboygan-co there are some streams that are also producing trout. Last season a picture was sent me of a brown that weighed 14 and a half pounds. This fish was caught in Nichols Creek. I know also of some streams between them and Fond du Lac that have trout in limited numbers, mostly browns.

There are also streams in Kewaunee-co that harbor some big trout. And up around Waupaca one can be quite sure of getting trout from such streams as Bradley Brook, Emmons Creek, the Iola River, in the drainage canals of the country south of Portage and others.

However, the fish taken from the streams I have mentioned will hardly compare favorably with those of the "500" range, the Presque Isle country, the Poudre, Pine and Rat Rivers.

Ideal Stream

Speaking of getting big trout let me tell you of a trip a party of us made some time ago to the Patterson Creek. This stream is 12 miles northeast of Iron River. We stayed overnight at that place and pulled out early in the morning for the stream. It was in June, yet ice had frozen in the roads along the way.

The morning was bright and warm, however, and by the time we had arrived at our destination we could have waded the stream without waders, had we been so inclined, and not suffered with the cold. It was ideal for trout. We used nothing but artificial flies, and we caught the limit for each of our party. The fish were all speckled trout, and they averaged from 12 inches to over 14 in length.

We met a party on that trip who had come from fishing the Fence, and they also had a wonderful catch of big fish. And, by the way, there are some branch streams that enter the Fence, and they all have trout, mostly speckled. And a few miles above there is the Brule, which has always been noted for its excellent fishing, provided the angler is posted on where to go. One of the best places I have found on that stream is the fast run above Nelson, or south of there and above Long Lake.

Don't Force Children To Wash Faces

BY ANGELO PATRI

Little boys and girls who play heartily outdoors soon get dirty. Their faces and hands are smudged, their clothes are soiled, their hair flies higher and on. By and by they go home and ninety-nine of them are greeted with, "Go right upstairs and wash yourself. You're as dirty as you can be. Don't touch anything. Wash yourself thoroughly before you come down again. Why you are so dirty is beyond me."

The dirty child is made to feel at fault. He is told that he ought to be ashamed of himself. By and by he gets to believe it. Dirty hands and face, though won in an honorable way, are a badge of shame. That's all wrong. One day's dirt will never harm a child. A man who works expects to have dirty hands. The child who works has the same right to them as any other worker. He has come by that dirt honestly.

Don't make a fuss about it. When he comes in soiled from the playground accept it as a matter of course. Tell him the warm water is ready and the soft towel is for him. He will wash his hands, cheerfully and make himself presentable without feeling himself in the wrong. If we use clean hands and face with morality, if we make dirty hands a sin and a shame, we are laying up trouble and plenty of it.

It is not wrong to be dirty. It is unpleasant. Dirt on one's hands and face make one uncomfortable and the dirt is dangerous because it threatens one's health. Teach the child that everybody gets dirty if he does anything worth doing but nobody worth anything stays dirty. Comfort, beauty and health call for cleanliness. They are a sufficient force without calling in morality. Save that for more serious matters.

Rearing a child calls for a great nicety of judgment. If you tell a child that dirty hands are shameful you exercise bad judgment. If you point out to him that they are a menace to his health, you display sound sense and good judgment. The point of view is what counts. We so often lose sight of that fact.

"Harry, go right to bed. Don't you see what time it is? Have I got to tell you that every night? You ought to be ashamed of yourself." Harry grumbles and growls and delays to the last possible moment.

Somebody else takes the other point of view. "Come along, Harry. It's getting close to bedtime. You want to be as fresh as a racehorse tomorrow morning. You have to get in ten hours good sleep if you want to run faster than you did yesterday. You want to keep fit. Your bed's all ready."

That time Harry goes off without growling. He thinks perhaps this going to bed isn't so altogether hopeless. Maybe there is some sense to it. Tell a child to wash himself because he is shamefully dirty and you get a sulky response. Tell him the warm water is ready, that he will be handsomer and healthier for a good wash, and he takes it in good part. The point of view is the important thing. It is thinking that makes the world go 'round.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT EXTRA RICH IN VITAL FOOD ELEMENTS

Laboratory Certifies the Improved Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit

Before the new Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit was introduced, the Kellogg Company submitted it to the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia, which found it so rich in food value that every package could be certified.

This means that mothers can now know definitely that their children are getting a well-balanced food whenever they serve the new Kellogg biscuits and milk—rich in minerals, vitamins, proteins—nourishing and healthful.

And Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits offer many other features. The biscuits are "pressure-cooked" by a special process that bakes in the delicious flavor. At the same time, it retains all the valuable food elements of the whole wheat.

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits are much crisper and tastier because they are toasted a tempting brown on both top and bottom—not just one side. They are baked in a more convenient, economical size. Two biscuits just fit the cereal bowl—and you get 15 to the package.

Naturally, this tasty new biscuit is welcome for breakfast, lunch, children's suppers—any meal, in fact. Ready to serve with milk or cream. Sold by grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

See Passage For "Lame Duck" Measure

States that have ratified the "lame duck" amendment are indicated in black on this map.

Already proved the most popular amendment to the Constitution ever offered for ratification by the states, the "lame duck" measure now has passed eleven legislatures and seems assured of success in most of the other states where it has not yet been brought to a vote.

Since the measure was proposed by Senator Norris, not a single state has rejected it. However, there have been only fourteen legislatures in regular session since that time. The legislatures in Arizona and Wisconsin adjourned before the amendment passed Congress. Massachusetts has not acted on it. But it has been passed in New York, Mississippi, Arkansas, Virginia, New Jersey, Kentucky, Michigan, South Carolina, Maine, Rhode Island and Illinois.

Nearly all the legislatures will have regular sessions in 1933, and backers of the measure are confident it will be ratified by the necessary total of 35 states, and soon afterward will become effective as part of the Constitution.

Thus would be abolished the three-month period between an election and the convening of a Congress, a lapse which now permits legislators who have been defeated for re-election to sit in Congress until their terms expire.

Also, under the "lame duck" amendment, the president chosen in 1935, and every chief executive thereafter, would be inaugurated within two months after his election.

Spells After Eating

"I Think I Will Die," Said One Sufferer

How He Has Found Relief

No more terrifying attacks of stomach agony. No more gas. No spells. No more biliousness. Read what an easy way one man has found to overcome them:

"I am using your Mentha Pepsin for indigestion and find it the best thing I ever got," writes J. Bruner, 273 West Vine St., Alliance O. "I get spells after eating. I think I will die. Your medicine has relieved me so far."

Dare's Mentha Pepsin always gives swift, sure relief from stomach agony, say the thousands who have learned to depend on it. So druggists, like Schlicht Bros. Co. here in Iowa, guarantee money back if it should ever fail.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
HOWE AND TRIUMPH

For a century and a half, historians have been wondering about the strange behavior of Sir William Howe during the Revolutionary War.

Howe commanded the British forces from before Bunker Hill until shortly after Burgoyne's defeat at Saratoga. He met Washington in the field repeatedly and nearly always defeated him; and in many cases he could have crushed Washington's army completely, and ended the war, if he had shown only a little more initiative and determination.

But he never did it. Washington got his army away after Long Island and White Plains, took it across New Jersey against long odds and kept it in existence until, at last, the pendulum began to swing the other way.

Beilamy Partridge examines Sir William's curious conduct in a new book, "Sir Billy Howe," and finds a simple and seemingly logical explanation.

Howe, he says, was a Whig fighting in a Tory war. He never wanted to see the colonies crushed, and his chief aim was to win the war, and he hoped constantly that sooner or later the colonists would realize the overwhelming power of Britain and would sue for peace. Because he sympathized with the colonists so much, he did not want the British cabinet to be able to dictate a settlement, and he tried to keep each victory from being really decisive. In plain English, he pulled his punches.

"Sir Billy Howe" makes interesting reading, and offers an important new theory about the Revolution. It is published by Longmans, Green and Company, and is priced at $3.50.

BRIAND ARRESTED AS TRAMP

Among the interesting stories being told about M. Briand since his death is one revealing his love for the unconventional. When on vacation he wore the oldest of clothes. On one vacation while he was "hiking" in a rural part of France he was actually arrested by police officers as an undesirable loafer. It was only when he was taken to the local police station that he succeeded in establishing his identity. The first thing he did on being released was to take the two officers who had arrested him to the local cafe and "stand treat."

Intermarriage Sunday were Elijah's mantle, and The Wedding Garment. The theme of the service at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday was Adam and Fallen Man.

HOLDING COMPANIES ACHIEVED SUCCESS IN UTILITY FIELD

Events of Past Few Months Emphasize Need for Organizations

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)

New York—Whatever may be the arguments in favor of the holding company as a financial device the events of the past few months have emphasized the wisdom of investors who give the preference to the securities of the operating companies.

Holding companies achieved their greatest success in the public utility field. Adoption of the plan by those interested in railroads is a relatively recent development and the great depression came too soon to allow of such wide distribution of the stocks of the holding company as was effected by those specializing in public utilities.

Even in times of prosperity there was always the danger of the investor being confused by a name. He would buy bonds and preferred stocks of a public utility holding company with the idea he was obtaining something more conservative than a common stock. That was of course with regard to the obligations of the holding company itself but it obscured the fact that in many instances these bonds were secured only by deposit of common stocks of an operating company and were entitled to no higher rating than the common stock of that operating company. As a matter of fact they were less desirable because the price asked for the holding company bond was high in comparison with the market price of the stock on which it was secured.

What was true of the holding company bonds applied to the holding company preferred stocks in greater degree. During the great slump in the market in the past two and one half years this difference in values was reflected vividly in a difference in market prices. All of this is on the assumption that the managers of the holding company never involved the properties of the operating companies in their speculative ventures.

As trade revives and prosperity returns the well managed holding company will improve their position. Meanwhile the safest course for the small investor is to confine his commitments to the operating companies.

U. S. ECONOMIES TO BE FELT IN STATE

Study of Congressional Projects Bears Out Assumption

Milwaukee —(P)— Economies of the federal government probably will have an immediate and keenly felt effect in many Wisconsin communities. It is indicated by a study of proposals with which congress is wrestling. The appropriation bill, in its present form, would bring to a standstill numerous federal activities in the state.

About $175,000 is required to finish the Milwaukee harbor project. The bill allows only $20,000. The Fox river developments would be stopped entirely. This project still needs $1,161,300.

Other Wisconsin harbor appropriations are reduced to bare maintenance allowance as follows:

Milwaukee, $28,000; Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan ship canal, $10,000; Algoma, $74,000; Kewaunee, $5,000; Two Rivers, $7,000; Sheboygan, $11,000; Port Washington, $7,000; Racine, $11,000; Kenosha, $5,000.

Various federal building projects are postponed indefinitely. Furthermore, federal economies will severely limit military activities in the state. Summer camps of the military training corps would be discontinued for a year. About $2,233,000 is sliced from the funds for the Reserve Officers Training Corps, with the result that the summer camps and the 14-day training pay would be suspended. Federal aid to the national guard also would be limited.

75 FAIRS FILE PREMIUM LISTS FOR 1932 SEASON

Expect All but One to Get State Aid During Coming Year

Madison—With a total of 75 fairs filing premium lists up to the deadline of May 1, indications are that the state aid money will be applied to only one less fair in 1932 than was granted in 1931, according to Ralph E. Ammon, chief of fairs and state development of the department of agriculture and markets. Only two fairs have been cancelled, Calumet and Elroy, but Ashland-co has had a premium list so that the total number of fairs to receive state aid will still reach 75.

Of the total, 31 fairs have set their dates in August this year as compared to 29 with August dates last year. Three fairs are held outside of the regular fair season, the Waushara fair which is scheduled for March 15 to 18, the Oconto Corn and Potato show held on November 8 and 9, and the Milwaukee County Fair of January 28 to 29.

The following fairs have announced their dates for 1932:

by 44 per cent. Only 20 per cent employed less help and 10 per cent reduced their inventories.

The bulletin said a typical comment to its question as to what was being done about customers who are without jobs was:

"We have used no extra pressure in forcing collections but have pleaded for partial payments where customers are unable to pay in full, to the unemployed, where honesty is not doubted, we have granted extensions."

Merchants in some sections of the state reported the acceptance of wood and other commodities in payment for merchandise.

COUNTY SPENT $10,497 TO AID BLIND PERSONS

Only five counties in the state paid out more in 1931 for blind pensions than Outagamie-co, according to an audit made by the state board of control. Last year Outagamie-co spent $10,497 on pensions for 50 blind persons in the county. The state will repay the county $1,361 of this amount.

Counties which spent more than Outagamie-co and the number of pensioners in each were: Milwaukee, $59,551.25 to 262 pensioners; Racine, $15,951 to 62 pensioners; Grant, $14,691.50 to 56 pensioners; Douglas, $11,054 to 45 pensioners; and Chippewa, $10,680 to 43 pensioners. The smallest amount was spent by Sawyer-co for one pensioner. A total of $355,635.27 was paid out by all counties to 1,555 pensioners.

You Can't Marry by Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Caught — Jenny Revell thinks, when she sees Garth Avenue approaching. She doesn't want to be discovered, because she is going to a wedding that must be kept secret. Her cousin Georgie is marrying Eddie Townsend, and if this is made public, her employer, Gratton Matching, will fire her, since he will have only unmarried women working for him. When Avenue met the girls, the previous evening, Jenny realizes she spent most of the time with Georgie. He was really trying to bribe Georgie by order of Matching, his uncle, to see whether she might be the source of escaping information about business. But Jenny does not know this, and believes he is interested in Georgie. She likes him herself, and wishes he preferred her as Georgie is already in love. Avenue's success in proving Georgie's innocence leaves him free to develop Jenny's acquaintance, which he seems eager to do.

Chapter 9

RUNNING AWAY

THERE was no time to hide. Jenny bent down to the tabby cat and talked to it urgently. The him of her hair—apple-green like her frock—should surely hide her face.

Her ears were filled with the sound of his footsteps, coming closer and closer; level with her, passing, checking. . . . Turning towards her. . . .

She straightened and looked up at him. He really was laughing at her now. At least, he seemed to be, though not with his lips or his eyes. "Good morning, Jenny Revell."

She was helplessly silent. He sat down beside her and she noticed that there was a good deal of color in his face. She feared it was there because her manner was offending him; and, for the moment, Georgie was forgotten.

"I didn't think you would recognize me," she said childishly. "Didn't you want me to? Was that why you were hiding behind that big hat? As a matter of fact," he went on, "I recognized your hands. . . . Does that surprise you? She was again tongue-tied. She looked down at her hands as though they could help her. Georgie had once remarked that they were very beautiful, but that could hardly be the reason for—yet she wore no rings, nothing to distinguish them. "Why," said Garth Avenue, one hand on his hip, one elbow crooked over the back of the seat, "do you always run away from my very simple questions?"

"They're not simple," returned Jenny from the depths of her perplexities. "I mean they may be easy for you to ask; but they're horribly hard to answer."

"Perhaps they are," he agreed unexpectedly. He, too, dangled a hand for the tabby cat to sidle against. "Let's exchange what is known as small talk instead. You remark that you wonder what I'm doing in this part of the world. Then I make the same kind of noise at you. The only thing really worth talking about is, of course, the stupendous coincidence of our meeting just here, just now. But--"

Hastily, Jenny said— "I'm filling in time till twelve o'clock. Then I have to meet Georgie."

"And I," said Avenue politely, "am on my way from taking a pilot's report on his trip—to the office. If you honestly don't want to talk about the strangeness of our meeting—you and I in this quiet little pool of a place—we shall now have to think of some more small talk. Fortunately for me, it's your turn. Involuntarily, she looked at him. There was in his last words no laughter-echo. His voice sounded abruptly tired; hurt. Disappointed. . . . Well, he was disappointed, naturally. Georgie, however good natured she had been, must have turned him down without a gleam of compromise. Jenny lifted her troubled gaze to his and tried to comfort him by dragging this odd conversation round to Georgie.

"You can't marry chap, 9 times may 10. It was a great pity," she said timely, "that Mr. Matching sent for Georgie last night. Quite often for weeks and weeks he doesn't need her of an evening; it was too bad that it happened to break up the party."

"I don't think the party mattered a bit. I had to have half an hour with Miss Revell, somewhere, somehow, and I got a far better chance at it in the car than I should have at that infernal Crescendo place."

I wonder—I suppose she told you about our—argument?"

"She said she would one day. As a matter of fact I couldn't help overhearing bits of the end of it. I was in the apartment, you see."

"I see." He didn't appear embarrassed. He took off his hat, ran a hand over his hair, and sat bareheaded. "Oh, well, you know all about everything, then. . . . She's pretty fine, your cousin. Isn't she?"

"Nobody except me," returned Jenny proudly, "really knows how fine she is."

"You're fond of her?" He spoke almost absently, his eyes on Jenny's hands, curled round her knee. . . .

"She saved me from—I don't really know what I should have done if Georgie hadn't saved me. You see--"

"She stopped, searching for words that should do justice to Georgie."

"No, don't stop. Tell me."

"Well, I'm afraid I shall have to begin with my own history and it's rather a dull one."

"Tell me, Jenny Revell."

"My grandfather was a rather strange old man. He was an eccentric and a crank. Kind, in a way—at least, he was often kind to me. He had two children, my father and Georgie's mother. My father was an artist, my mother was a dancer. They were darlings but they never succeeded at anything, either of them. They died when I was twelve, and I went to live with grandfather, in the country. He told me that Georgie's parents had practically kept mine for years at a time."

"Old brute!"

"He used to put things rather brutally sometimes but I think in this case he wanted an excuse to quarrel with Georgie's father. Any way, just before he died he told me he was leaving all he possessed to charity and that as Georgie's parents seemed to have so much money to throw about, no doubt they would look after me. And I'm sure they would have helped me, but when grandfather's lawyers made enquiries, they found that they were both dead and Georgie was quite on her own. So, of course, I couldn't bother her. . . . What did you say?"

"Nothing very much. . . . Tell me what you did instead of bothering Georgie."

"I got a job as governess and lost it. The children were dears but their parents were difficult. The father was—I hated him. . . . Oh, I can't give you a list of all the jobs I took and lost, it would bore you! I'm incompetent, really, and quite untrained. Anyway, I'd got to the point of planning—I'd got to the very end of everything. And then Georgie found me."

(Copyright, Julia Cleft-Addams)

Instead of watching a quiet wedding day, in the next installment Jenny sees—blood.

CHAMPION HIKER

Jacksonville, Fla. — When Jack McCoy goes for a walk, a little jaunt of 1000 miles is just a stroll for him. Several years ago, McCoy, a student at Ann Arbor, Mich., decided to go for a walk. Before he had finished, he had completed 5190 miles between Ann Arbor, Halifax, N. S., and San Francisco. He recently arrived here and announced he was on his way to tramp 7000 miles through France, Belgium, Spain and South America.

Washington Wins From Cleveland 3 And 0 As Reynolds Stars

FORMER CHI SOX OUTFIELDER IS HITTING .420

Cards Jump on Jack Quinn, Hand Dodgers 4th Straight Defeat

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
I haven't taken Carl Reynolds long to convince his new employers, the Washington Senators, that they drove a very brisk bargain when they obtained him from the Chicago White Sox in one of the winter's most discussed deals.
The speedy outfielder, who joined the Senators in a trade involving the two veteran pitchers, Sam Jones and Irving Hadley, is in no small measure responsible for the fact that Walter Johnson's outfit is leading its closest American league rivals by three full games today.
He's hitting at a .240 clip, the highest average in either league, is second in total hits notwithstanding a late start, and is as brilliant as ever. If he holds his present pace, he might easily make the difference between the pennant and the Senators want and the third place they won last year.
Nats Win 3 and 0
Reynolds virtually was the whole show offensively as Washington won yesterday's opener from Cleveland, 3 to 0. He scored the first run off Wes Ferrell in the seventh, when he singled, eased his way around to third and went home on an infield out. Homerun in the next frame with Joe Cronin aboard settled any doubt of the issue.
Lloyd Brown continued to pitch sparkling ball for the leaders, allowing only four hits and walking three. The victory was Washington's ninth in ten starts.
Three other American league contests gave way to rain and cold, but the idle Yankees slipped into second place as a result of Cleveland's loss.
The St. Louis Cardinals put on the day's best act in the National league when they scored three times in the last of the ninth to hand the Brooklyn Dodgers their fourth straight defeat, 7 to 6. With one away, the champions jumped on old Jack Quinn, Brooklyn relief hurler, for four hits to turn the tide. Jimmy Collins' single, his third hit, scored Sparky Adams with the deciding counter.
Reds Down Phillies
Something similar was seen at Cincinnati, where the Reds pushed across to run in the ninth to "down" the Phillies 4 to 3, and break up a pitchers' duel between Owen Carroll and Ed Hootley. Wally Gilbert's safety single brought in his old Brooklyn playmate, Babe Herman, who had doubled. Another ex-Brooklyn, Ernie Lombardi, also starred at bat for the Reds with a home run and a triple.
Fritz Knehe's single in the twelfth knocked two runs across and the Boston Braves staggered out with a 5 to 3 victory over Pittsburgh, their first in five starts in the west. At that, it took three pitchers to put down a Pirate rally in the last of the twelfth. The bases were full of Pirates when Cantwell finally retired the side.
The Giants were rained out at Chicago.

Reynolds virtually was the whole show offensively as Washington won yesterday's opener from Cleveland, 3 to 0. He scored the first run off Wes Ferrell in the seventh, when he singled, eased his way around to third and went home on an infield out. Homerun in the next frame with Joe Cronin aboard settled any doubt of the issue.
Lloyd Brown continued to pitch sparkling ball for the leaders, allowing only four hits and walking three. The victory was Washington's ninth in ten starts.
Three other American league contests gave way to rain and cold, but the idle Yankees slipped into second place as a result of Cleveland's loss.
The St. Louis Cardinals put on the day's best act in the National league when they scored three times in the last of the ninth to hand the Brooklyn Dodgers their fourth straight defeat, 7 to 6. With one away, the champions jumped on old Jack Quinn, Brooklyn relief hurler, for four hits to turn the tide. Jimmy Collins' single, his third hit, scored Sparky Adams with the deciding counter.
Reds Down Phillies
Something similar was seen at Cincinnati, where the Reds pushed across to run in the ninth to "down" the Phillies 4 to 3, and break up a pitchers' duel between Owen Carroll and Ed Hootley. Wally Gilbert's safety single brought in his old Brooklyn playmate, Babe Herman, who had doubled. Another ex-Brooklyn, Ernie Lombardi, also starred at bat for the Reds with a home run and a triple.
Fritz Knehe's single in the twelfth knocked two runs across and the Boston Braves staggered out with a 5 to 3 victory over Pittsburgh, their first in five starts in the west. At that, it took three pitchers to put down a Pirate rally in the last of the twelfth. The bases were full of Pirates when Cantwell finally retired the side.
The Giants were rained out at Chicago.

"PEA RIDGE" DAY
WITH 16TH CLUB
Arkansas Traveler Objects to Being Called the "Hog Caller"
Minneapolis — (P) — Clyde "Pea Ridge" Day, is doing quite well these days, thank you, pitching for the sixteenth baseball club of his career.
Twirling for the Minneapolis Millers, the right hander has won three games and lost one during the youthful American association season. His club is well up in the race.
Day, called "Pea Ridge" because that's his home town in Arkansas, came here from Brooklyn. His baseball roots, began in 1921. He began in Joplin to Denver to Fort Smith to Joplin to Little Rock to Muskogee to St. Louis Cards to Syracuse to Cincinnati to Los Angeles to Wichita to Omaha to Chicago Cubs to Kansas City to Brooklyn to Minneapolis.
This Arkansas traveler, known for the noise he makes, doesn't mind being called "Pea Ridge." But when it's "hog-caller," he objects.
Here's his story: "I used to notice when I was a kid that a goller was upset easily when somebody made a noise or did something to catch his attention. I knew it would take a lot more to bother ball players but I decided they could be bothered.
"So I hit upon the idea of hollering to pep things up and try to kid my opponents. And now they call me the hog-caller from Arkansas."
P. G. A. PLANNING CLINICS FOR PROS
New York — (P) — The Professional Golfers' Association plans to set up clinics in four sections of the country where pros will be able to find a cure for whatever golfing ailments may be impairing their usefulness.
In a general way the clinics will furnish expert courses on the three major duties of the average country club pro—teaching, club making and greens keeping.
"One of the objects of the clinic," says George R. Jacobus of Ridgefield, N. J., chairman of the P. G. A.'s ways and means committee, "will be to help the professionals to be of more benefit to their club members. Many of the present day young professionals have risen so rapidly that they have had little actual experience in club making and teaching."
Under present plans, clinics will be established in New York, Chicago and probably Atlanta for the east, mid-west and south, and in some city in California for the far west.

VIKE THINGLADS TO MEET NORMAL TEAMS

Battle Here Wednesday; Invade Beloit for Saturday's Competition

Although his track team hasn't been winning much in the way of honors, Coach Arthur C. Denney of Lawrence college, isn't afraid to give the boys plenty of competition. So Wednesday afternoon the Vikes will clash with Oshkosh normal and a delegation of Eddie Kotal's proteges from Stevens Point normal at Whiting field.
Lawrence has competed in two dual meets this spring and lost both, one to Carroll college of Waukesha, one to Ripon college of Ripon. Both have been by top heavy scores because the Vikes just haven't the outstanding stars that go to make a team.
Little is known about the normal squads. They haven't cinder tracks on which to work, it is said, and because they want to work out a few times before their state meet they have jumped at the opportunity to get in a drill here.
Saturday the Viking thin clads will hit the trail for Beloit where they meet the gold track team. The meet will be closer than others but the Vikes are doped to lose again.

KILLEFER LIKES BRUCE CAMPBELL
Predicts He'll Become One of Greatest A. L. Outfielders
New York — (P) — Bruce Campbell couldn't win a regular berth in the Chicago White Sox outfield but he can play for Bill Killefer's money.
The St. Louis Browns' pilot believes he has a genuine "find" in the big fellow who came to his club along with Pitcher Irving Hadley in the deal that sent "Red" Kress to the White Sox.
"Why he was sent along as a sort of extra to complete the trade," Killefer said, "but he looks to me like the best one in the bunch. I can't figure out why Fonseca let him get away.
"I don't mind predicting right now that before the season is over he'll be recognized as one of the greatest outfielders in the American league. All he needs is a little polish. He fields very well and he can sure hit that ball."
Campbell, a six-footer who throws right and bats left, had a tryout with the White Sox last year. He didn't make the grade and was optioned to Little Rock in the Southern association. There he compiled a batting average of .351, including 25 doubles, 13 triples and 10 home runs. This spring he was regarded as one of the most promising newcomers in the league. Killefer, for one, still is convinced the big fellow has the makings of a star.
Campbell joined the Browns April 23 and was blanked at bat his first two games. Since then, however, he has pounded out 13 hits in eight games for an average of .379 and has been stopped only once.
Campbell was born at Chicago 22 years ago. He originally was a catcher and put in some time at third base before deciding the outfield was his spot.

Predicts He'll Become One of Greatest A. L. Outfielders
New York — (P) — Bruce Campbell couldn't win a regular berth in the Chicago White Sox outfield but he can play for Bill Killefer's money.
The St. Louis Browns' pilot believes he has a genuine "find" in the big fellow who came to his club along with Pitcher Irving Hadley in the deal that sent "Red" Kress to the White Sox.
"Why he was sent along as a sort of extra to complete the trade," Killefer said, "but he looks to me like the best one in the bunch. I can't figure out why Fonseca let him get away.
"I don't mind predicting right now that before the season is over he'll be recognized as one of the greatest outfielders in the American league. All he needs is a little polish. He fields very well and he can sure hit that ball."
Campbell, a six-footer who throws right and bats left, had a tryout with the White Sox last year. He didn't make the grade and was optioned to Little Rock in the Southern association. There he compiled a batting average of .351, including

WAIT FOR DRY GROUND TO SET OUT CABBAGE

BY W. F. WINSEY

Hortonville—As soon as the ground dries sufficiently, Schwabs Bros. cabbage growers and dealers of this village, are expecting to set out their first four acre field of early cabbage plants. They expected to do the job Saturday, but they found the ground too wet for planting. Their plants were shipped here from the south.

Three years ago, Schwabs Bros. set out their early cabbage plants on April 5, harvested the crop July 1, and got an average yield of 8 tons to the acre. Last spring the brothers did their early planting on April 15, and harvested the crop about July 15 which yielded 4 tons to the acre. This year was about the average yield of all cabbage in the vicinity, according to the brothers, but many growers did not get over 3 tons per acre and some fields of late cabbage were failures on account of the drought and pest injury. The brothers predicted the acreage of cabbage in this vicinity this spring will be about the same as that of last year.

SUGGEST LIST OF CROPS FOR FARMS

Experiment Shows What Types of Grain to Plant to Keep Feed Bill Down

What crops, planted this spring, will keep the 1932 feed bill at a minimum? Perhaps as simple a combination of dependable crops as may be grown on Outagamie-co farms, and one that can make up a balanced ration for most dairy cows is corn for silage, barley for grain, and alfalfa or clover for hay, according to Gus Sell, county agent. Tests carried on at the Wisconsin experiment station have shown repeatedly, according to Gus Sell, that rations for dairy cows made up of these crops will keep up a good flow of milk. While barley, as the only grain, may not be as palatable for a cow as a mixture of barley with other grain by-products, it is one of our cheapest feeds and when used with good roughages will enable cows to produce well at the farm. The Wisconsin pasture ley No. 38, because of its smooth awns, has removed much of the objection which some formerly had for the barley crop.

Where the hay supply consists of timothy, or mixed hay's timothy with some clover, soybeans, which are higher in protein, may be sown as an emergency hay crop for feeding with these lower protein hays to balance the ration.

Rape, as a forage crop for sheep and pigs, may also be classed as a cash-crop and costs but little to grow. In comparison with other pasture crops for sheep and hogs, Bohstedt has found rape the most satisfactory annual forage crop. It produces well during the summer period when blue grass or timothy pastures are dry and wiry and, unlike peas, will stand continued grazing. It will carry both ewes and lambs without grain for several months. Where rye is fall sown and is used for early spring pasture for cows and sucking pigs, rape has proved a good crop to sow in late May or early June after the rye has been grazed under.

While these are not the only crops that can be used to advantage to keep the feed bill down, they suggest a combination for any Outagamie-co farm that can be used to provide feed for our livestock at the mangers, at the feed troughs, and at pasture at the least possible cost for feed outlay.

TOO MUCH—NOT ENOUGH

Denver—First he had too much money, and then he didn't have enough—so a pretty old Young Love, 68, went to jail. He was arrested on vagrancy charges after officers found him begging with $26.50 in his pocket. Judge A. H. Pickens fined him $25, plus $2 costs. As Love's finances fell just short of the total—$27—he was taken to the county jail.

RIVERSIDES Prove their quality again

"I should be licked for driving these roads"

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:
As a salesman I drove my Buick Master Six this year a little over 16,000 miles. Every kind of driving from the New York City traffic to sudden stops and quick starting to three months of long hot runs in midsummer to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. I should be licked for driving some of those sharp stone mountain roads, but the best trout fishing is where roads are so rough the other fellow is afraid to drive there. This fall I've been up scrub-oak roads rabbit shooting and that driving is hard on tires too, but thanks to Riversides, they stay with me. During the entire year, and 16,000 miles, not one of the Riversides has been off the car. I know of nowhere in the U.S.A. that a man can get more mileage per dollar expended than he can in buying Riverside tires.

Very truly yours,

W. B. Cronk.

This interesting letter from Mr. Cronk is one of many hundreds in our files. It was entirely voluntary—sent to us without solicitation. Nothing was paid for it. It is a genuine expression of gratitude for meritorious service.

and now we offer 6 PLY RIVERSIDES at 4 PLY PRICES!

The new 6-PLY Riverside Mate is the greatest tire value that we have ever offered. An even better Miles-Per-Dollar value than the tire Mr. Cronk praises. For here are the lowest prices at which we have ever sold a 6-PLY Heavy Duty Riverside Tire. Think of this: 6-Plies From Bead to Bead at the Usual Price of Other 4-Ply Tires!

Riversides are one of America's most famous tires. For 20 years we have supplied them to the motor public. They are of the highest quality it is possible to produce. They are built by one of the world's largest tire companies. They are backed by a new unlimited guarantee—the fairest and most liberal ever put on any tire.

We'll match Riversides on the road against any tire and beat it in price. So why be satisfied with other 4-Ply Tires when you can buy full 6-Ply Riversides for the same money?
